EVERYTHING FOR HILL

VOL. XXIII.

The Sentiment in New York State Is Practically Unanimous

IN SUPPORT OF DEMOCRACY'S FAVORITE

Thirteen of Fourteen Assembly Districts Have Declared for Hill.

THEY PASS RED-HOT RESOLUTIONS.

The Political Situation in the Empire State Accurately Photographed-The Reform Club and Mugwumps.

NEW YORK, February 9.—[Special.]—The democracy of the state of New York is falling enthusiastically in line for Hill, and he is sweeping everything.

It is plain from the resolutions passed and the delegates selected so far that the state convention will be substantially unanimous for Senator Hill for president, and that the delegates will be of his choice. It will hardly be necessary for him to have a unit rule adopted to secure for himself the unanimous vote of the seventy-two delegates to the national convention from New York. The only county convention of the nine already held that is hostile to Senator Hill is the Essex county convention, where Smith M. Weed controlled. Mr. Weed has been unfriendly to Mr. Hill ever since Mr. Hill was chosen senator. That is the only opposition, outside of Albany and Genesee counties, that has developed within the party organization.

County convention after county convention has passed resolutions endorsing Senator Hill for president, and instructing their delegates at the state convention to act for him. The expression is practically unanimous. The big unties of New York, Kings and Erle have not as yet held their primaries, but they are all together. Never since the time of Tilden has the democratic organization throughout the state been so unanimous. Thirty-one of the thirty-four congress districts are for Hill. .The interest being taken is greater than has been known in many years. The state of New York is divided into 128 assembly districts. Each assembly district selects three delegates to the state convention, making 384 delegates when in convention assembled. The selection of the delegates has commenced. The counties of Chemung, Columbia, Essex, Rensselaer, Rockland, Schenectady, Steuben, Ontario and Oswego have been heard from and out of fourteen as sembly districts thirteen have elected Hill delegates to the state convention.

All through the agricultural districts the democratic farmers are strongly in favor of the nomination of David B. Hill for president. Ontario's Resolutions.

In Ontario county the enthusiasm for Sena tor Hill was unbounded. The mention of his name was the signal for repeated outbursts of applause, and so great was the enthusiasm that the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Moleras, The democracy of Ontario county, in convention assembled, believing that success in the coming presidential campaign can only be attained by the nomination of a statesman who has repeatedly demonstrated his ability to carry the state of New York, and recognizing in the per-sonality of David B. Hill a leader of unblemished sonality of David B. Hill a leader of unblemished character, of strict honor, of unequaled capacity and unquestioned democracy, one, who, during his seven years' term as governor, has led the party to great and continued victories, and as a final triumph rescued both branches of the legisture, thereby intrenching the democracy in absolute control of the state; therefore be it

Resolved, That the delegales selected to repre-sent Ontario county at the state convention be, and are hereby, instructed to vote only for such delegates to the national convention as shall be pledged to the support of the Candidacy of Sen-*ator David B. Hill for the nomination for pres-

This enthusiasm runs through the length and breadth of the state, notwithstanding the fact that on Thursday of this week the much advertised anti-Hill demonstration is to be made at Cooper Union, in New York city. It is not believed that the "uprising" will develop any alarming proportions. Will Reward a Faithful Servant. The popularity of Senator Hill is strong. His services to the state have been so great, his democracy so unquestioned, that it is be lieved that the party will stick to the sound doctrine of its name, and not for an instant do aught to embarrass the great political leader of the day, whose proudest boast is that he is a

The Cleveland followers and the mugwumps have such a small share of the popular favor that their influence will have terial bearing upon the outcome of the selection of a solid Hill delegation. The interest being taken in the interior of the state is indicative of the popular feeling.

The action of the counties of New York and Kings is awaited with a considerable degree of interest. New York will send seventy-two delegates and Kings thirty-six. Those two counties will show Cleveland's strength and what claim he has upon popular favor.

Oswego county has just elected a solid Hill delegation and adopted resolutions eulogistic of Senator Hill. Schenectady Enthusiastic for Hill.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., February 9 .- The Schenectady county democrats are enthusias-tic for David B. Hill as their presidential choice. Cleveland's name was not mentioned in the convention in any form, and the delegates selected were known as rock-ribbed Hill

Most of the delegates present were farmers Most of the delegates present were farmers from interior parts of the county, and they unhesitatingly stated that the early state conventions met with their approval, because they could better attend them than in their busy spring months. As one delegate aptly expressed it: "Those New York city kid-glove tickers have time to go to conventions every day in the year, but we are restricted to only those seasons of the year when our time is not so actively employed."

The delegates elected to the state convention are out-and-out Hill men.

out Hill men. Judge E. D. Cutler, practically the leader of the democracy in this county, says that he has no sympathy whatever with this factional opposition to an early state convention.

"It is not only senseless," he said, "but ab-

"It is not only senseless," he said, "but absurd, and goes to prove the shrewdness of Senator Hill in having a convention so early as to draw out the full strength of the opposition. The gentlemen in New York who are so active in their efforts to oppose Senator Hill's presidential aspirations forget that state conventions were held in January and February in 1860 and 1864, and ordered by such eminent leaders of the party as Peter Cagger, William Cassidy, Samuel J. Tilden and John Bigelow. Nobody objected then to February conventions, and I fail to see any valid or political reason to object to the present early convention. I have asked nearly all the leading democrate in my county as to how they stand on this early convention idea, and they unanimously approve it. As you will notice in our convention today, all the delegates present favored the February date."

Not one of the delegates favored Cleveland's candidacy. Whenever the name of David B. Hall was mentioned the convention hall rang with cheers, and it was the most enthusiastic district convention that has been held here for years.

Hill Men from Rockland County. NYACK, N. Y., February 9.—The democratic district convention to elect delegates to the state convention was the most enthusiastic onvention known in the history of the county. Fully 800 democrats were at the convention.

The delegates elected are ironclad Hill men.
Immediately after the convention the delegates elected sent Senator Hill at Albany a joint dispatch, which read:

NYACK, February 6.—Eight hundred democrats of Rockland county, in convention assembled, have declared for you for president, and have passed resolutions accordingly.

Chemung County for Bill. ELMIRA, February 9 .- At a convention of the Chemung county democrats at Horseheads resolutions were passed, amid great en-thusiasm, reaffirming allegiance to and confidence in David B. Hill, and earnestly request-ing the representatives of this state in the national convention to nominate him for pres-ident of the United States.

THE TRUE INWARDNESS

Of the Kick of the Mugwumps Against the State Convention. NEW YORK, February 9.-[Special.]-The mugwump kick against an early convention in this state continues to be misunderstood in other parts of the country, and for that reason is receiving more or less serious attention. Here where the true inwardness of the movement is fully understood it is regarded merely as a joke, except by the organ of the mugwumps and another newspaper, which, elalming to be democratic, always opposes the action of the party man-agers and committees in order that it can claim to be independent.

This mugwump kick is not against an early convention—that much has been openly admitted by the leaders of the movement. It is an effort on the part of the personal friends of Grover Cleveland to convince the country that he has a following in New York and can divide the party. It is a clever hit of political work, as politics go, but it has very little chance of success. It is more like a disorganized, unarmed mob howling at a well-drilled army than anything else. The democratic party in New York is well organized and the party is for Hill. These howlers are outside the organization and they are for Cleveland. The Reform Club, of this city, which is backing the anti-Hill movement, is a very pleasant social organization, but it has Never Reformed Anything. It is a club where fashionable mugwumps, -silk-hatters, they are called-meet for monthly and annual dinners. The members are all rich and the dinners are good. The wines are old and rare and put the members in humor to listen the members in humor to listen patiently to the free trade speeches that always follow the dinners. The club has been organized several years, and is modeled after the Cobden Club of England. The ostensible purpose of the organization was to reform the tariff in particular and American politics in general. Mugwumps and free traders were not so numerous when the club was organized, and in order not to appear extreme it was called the Reform Club. The club has led a sort of negative existence. It has never been very positive about anything. It may have reformed the habits of some of its members and given them a taste for better dinners and better wines, but it has never reformed anything else. The other element interested in the Cleveland movement are the mugwumps who held office under him and hope to get office again should be be elected. Some of these men who are now howling loudest about being pure democrats and opposed to Hillism were leaders of the county democracy in the election last November and Made Open Deals with the Republicans in several assembly districts by which the votes of their organization were given to Fassett in return for republican votes for their local candidates. They boasted of this at the time, but now they claim to be pure demogaged in this movement who do not hold their personal ambition and their worship of Grover Cleveland above the best interests of the democratic party.

WOULD NOT SUPPORT CLEVELAND. Even if He Were Nominated-What North Carolina Alliancemen Say.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 9.—[Special.]— Today State Auditor Sanderlin returned from the southeastern part of the state and was interviewed, as it was learned he had some important news regarding the feeling of the alliance toward Cleveland. He says he saw the meeter of the suballiance, who after a meet-master of the suballance, who, after a meeting, at which sixty-six members were present, called upon them before they left the hall to state as to how many of them would vote against Cleveland if he were nominated. The alliance the same inquiry was made and all again rose. The auditor, who is a leading allianceman, said:

lianceman, said:
"I tell you it will handicap every democratic speaker if Cleveland is nominated. I will go farther and say that the alliance will not vote for Cleveland, and that his nomination will cost the democrats the electoral vote of North Carolina. Jasper for Hill.

JASPER, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—Your correspondent interviewed about one dozen of the most prominent democrats in Jasper as to their preference for president. Eight expressed themselves for Hill and four for Cleve-

Colonel L. J. Allred was among those interviewed. He expressed himself as being op-posed to any bitterness among democratic candidates. He was for harmony, and would support the nominee, but thought David B. Hill the most available man the democrats could nominate. Hill is gaining in favor

A Canvass of Dalton.

A Canvass of Dalton.

Dalton, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—A canvass of Dalton business men today from door to door developed fourteen with preference for Hill for president and twelve for him as the most available candidate. While there were ten first preferences for Cleveland who believed Hill the only means of success, eight were for Cleveland with conditions and four for the man that can carry New York. A prominent farmer said that he and his neighbors were for Hill. Two prominent Ocala platform alliancemen were for Hill in preference to Cleveland.

The Losses Will Amount to $1,000,000 MEMPHIS, Tenn., February 9.—Twenty-eight in-surance men, representing foreign companies, are busy this afternoon compiling their losses by last night's fire. The total loss by fire, as far as known night's nre. The total loss by nre, as tar as known at present, is at least nine hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the number of smaller losses yet to be reported will make the loss reach $1,000,000. Of the insurance on the buildings totally destroyed, $748,000 is in foreign, and $95,000 in local companies. It will be some time before the individual losses will be known, as nearly every sufferer has lost all papers and books.

A Free Coinage Test in the Committee This Morning.

MR. BLAND HAS PREPARED A MEASURE And It Will Be Reported Favorably to the House,

AND WILL SURELY PASS THAT BODY.

Chances Are That the Senate Will Do Likewise-But When It Goes to the White House , How Will It Fare?

WASHINGTON, February 9. - The house committee on coinage, weights and measures will vote upon the question of free coinage tomorrow morning. Mr. Bland has prepared a free coinage bill which the committee will report favorably. The voting will stand, if all the members are present, eight in favor of the bill and five against it. The bill provides for the free coinage of all silver presented at the mint to the amount of

It provides that the holder of bullion can take coin or certificates payable in "coin," which means payable in either gold or silver; and thus place gold and silver upon a parity The bill provides that the standard silver dollar shall contain 4121 grains, but there is further provisions that if there should be an further provisions that if there should be an international silver conference and France and other countries should be willing to enter into an agreement for free coinage the world over, that the number of grains contained in the standard silver dollar, if France insists upon it, may be reduced to 400 grains, which is the unit now adopted by the French government.

What Would the President Do?

Mr. Bartine, of Nevada, a republican mem ber of the committee, says that if this bill passes, and it is certain to pass the house, that the president would not dare to veto it. Notwithstanding his declaration to the contrary He says, should Mr. Harrison veto this bill the republican party would lose several west-ern states, and no one is more cognizant of this fact than the president himself. Whether or not this be true, it is certain that nothing on earth can now prevent the house from passing a free coinage bill within the next thirty days. The chances are that the senate will do likewise, and then the president will be placed in a position where he will have to either sign or veto the measure.

The "Futures" Bill.

The house committee on agriculture has devoted several days to hearings on the bill to prevent dealings in options and futures. Boards of trade and cotton and produce exchanges of all the leading cities have had delegations here arguing before the com-mittee against the bill. While the present measure, still the majority of the committee favor a bill of some sort, that will accomplish the desired object, and the chances are a bill of this kind will be reported within a few weeks. It will perhaps pass the house, but it is not believed such a measure could ever go through the senate.

There is a considerable number of desired. bill drawn by Mr. Hatch is a very imperfect

There is a considerable number of democratic members of the house who are favorable to members of the house who are favorable to silver but who would prefer, for political reasons, that the party should not now be committed to free coinage. Most of these members would vote for free coinage if the question came equarely to an issue, but some of them say they would welcome any plan to avoid raising the direct issue at this session.

The plan for an international monetary conference finds considerable favor, and some democrats opposed to free silver believe that, by this or some other plan, the question of free by this or some other plan, the question of free coinage will be put aside for a time. Democratic advocates of silver expect a large majority for free coinage on a direct test vote, and believe they can carry a free coinage bill under any circumstances. In addition to the large number of democratic regarded as certain to number of democrats regarded as certain to vote for any motion in the interest of free coinage, the solid vote of the Farmers' Alliance members is reckoned on, and also the votes of from seven to eleven republican members.

Ten of the republican members in the present house voted for the free coinage bill at the last session, and Mr. Jolley, of South Dakota, a new member, is also counted for free silver coinage Seven out of these eleven are regarded as certain to vote for free coinage on What Congress Did. The house adopted a resolution directing the committee on banking and currency to make inquiry as to the failure of the Keystone and Spring Garden banks, of Philadelphia, and the Maverick bank of Boston. Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, offered a resolution directing the judiciary committee to inquire into the right of the secretary of the treasury to employ the $100,000,000 gold reserve for current expenditures. Mr. Powers, of Vermont, from the judiciary committee, called up and the house passed the bill introduced by Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, placing the secretary of agriculture in the line of presidential succession after the secretary of presidential succession after the secretary of the interior.

Mr. Bynum, from the same committee, called up the bill abolishing the minimum punishment for violation of internal revenue punishment for violation of internal revenue laws. It also directs that no warrant shall be issued in internal revenue cases upon an affi-dayit making charges upon information and be-lief unless made by certain official persons. An Interstate Decision.

The interstate commerce commission today, in an opinion by Commissioner Veazey, announced its decision in favor of the com ant in the case of Charles P. Perry against the Florida Central and Peninsular Railroad Com-pany and other roads forming the Atlantic pany and other roads forming the Atlantic Coast Dispatch line. Colonel Moses received a telegram from the citizens of West Point today that they had reason to believe that the postmaster general intended to appoint the notorious negro politician, Curtis Bell, postmaster at that place. The telegram further stated that a protest had been mailed, signed by nearly all the citizens of West Point, of both parties, protesting. The peo-ple there endorse W. L. Williams for the office. Colonel Moses will go to the postoffice department tomorrow and request that no ap-pointment be made until the people of West Point are heard from. Speaker Crisp Stronger. Speaker Crisp has entirely recovered from his recent illness and is presiding over the house daily now. He grows stronger each day and is, in fact, as well now as before his illness.

The house has commenced rushing business now and will continue to do so until adjournment, which is expected early.

ment, which is expected early.

Reception at the White House.

The third and last reception of the series of three given by President Harrison at the white house this season took place tonight, and was in honor of the officers of the army and navy. The marine corps, diplomatic corps, congress and the judiciary were invited. The president and Mrs. Harrison were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Noble, Mrs. Elkins and Mrs. Foster. Among the large number of persons who stood in line back of the receiving party were Jay Gould. his son, Edwin Gould, and daughter, Miss Helen Gould, who came to Washington to attend the reception.

HERE'S A BIG SCHEME

DEFENDING THE BUSINESS. Protest of the New York Exchange Against the Anti-Options Bill.

the Anti-Options Bill.

Washinoton, February 9.—The views of the New York produce exchange in regard to the proposed legislation against the sale of options were presented to the house committee on agriculture today by Henry B, Nieland, who read the protest of that exchange against the passage of the bill. The protest states that the exchange heartily approves of the section of the measure defining option. The evils arising from trading in options, as there defined, were well known, and any legislation which would repress such a practice would be welcome. But the bill in section 2 proposes to re-ing from trading in options, as there defined, were well known, and any legislation which would repress such a practice would be welcome. But the bill in section 2 proposes to restrict trading in futures, which was a very different form of trading, and which included contracts which were continually used by all classes of merchants and dealers and bankers, who were dealing in the products mentioned in section 3 in a perfectly legitimate way.

In all future contracts of the exchange the actual value of the article sold was provided for, and that was the basis on which the contract rested. The seller was obliged to deliver, and the buyer to take the delivery of the product when the time named in the contract came. Any interference by legislation with the laws governing trade should only be made when gross abuses sought rectification.

Laws that had been successful in governing trade had been the outgrowth of many trials and some failures. Such laws grew with trade customs, and such customs had never been the result of legislation. Business done in futures was a piece of machinery for moving the products of the country, as far superior to the old methods of doing the same, as railroads are ahead of wagons, or elevators of half-bushel measures.

Would Buin the Entire System.

Would Buin the Entire System The remedies proposed by the bill for an illegit-imate method of trading in futures would involve in ruin the entire system under which the legitimate business of the various exchanges was prosecuted. It was asserted by some that dealing in futures was always disastrous to the producer, in futures was always disastrous to the producer, but as much might be said in the opposite direction; that in the long run the farmer who used dealings with futures to market his own product and that alone, would be the gamer by seizing those opportunities that now and again occurred under this system. By this system of dealing in futures, benefits were conferred upon the farmer, hog-packer, miller, merchant, exporter of grain, exporter of provisions and banker and capitalist. The unsettlement of our commercial relations with other countries must be disastrous to all concerned in them, and to none more than to the farmer whose skill and labor produce a livelihood for himself and those dependent on him, and a vast addition to the wealth of the nation of which he is a citizen.

They Are Not Gamblers.

which he is a citizen.

They Are Not Gamblers.

In conclusion Mr. Nieland said that the passage of the bill would humiliate every produce exchange in the country. It would put the members of those exchanges in the attitude of gamblers. They were not gamblers. Men who had embarked their fortunes in the transaction of business between the producer and consumer were as competent to handle these questions as any one could be. The bill was class legislation, and he hoped that the committee would take that fact into consideration.

The chairman said that as far as any member of the committee had expressed himself upon the measure, those expressions had been based entirelylonithe proposition[hat they werekonsidering a bill that would prohibit just such transactions as were prohibited by courts of law throughout the United States.

In response to a question by Mr. Moses, Mr. Nieland stated that the methods of "puts and calls" in practice was purely gambling, and that it would be beneficial to the producer if the bucket shop business should be, in some way, abandoned.

Cotton Men Talk.

Cotton Men Talk. Mr. C. W. Ide, of the New York cotton exchange, made an argument against the bill. The interest of his institution, he said, was in great peril; private interests were imperilled; the planter was in peril; the spinner was in peril; every one interested in the growing or manufacture of cotinterested in the growing or manufacture of cotton was in peril from the passage of this measure. This proposition was second in importance only to the tariff bill, because it affected the price of every product mentioned in the third section of the bill. It was not fair to the cotton exchange to permit it to address the committee for but one hour. He would like to have a special committee to investigate this question. He could show that committee the storehouses in Liverpool and Bremen packed with cotton.

He could show them mills of New England overstocked with cotton. The decline in the price of cotton was due to the large supply, and yet the gentleman said that the whole trouble was to be found in dealing in futures. The future system had the effect of bolstering prices because it attracted capital.

Capital.

Vice President Goss, of the New York cotton exchange, read a protest signed by a number of New York bankers against the proposed legislation. He then went on to argue that to abolish the future system would be of no advantage to the form of the country of the countr ations in the value of products. To abolish futures would be to do away with one of the most essential principles of modern trade.

The system of futures prevented depression in the price of produce in times of overproduction, because it enabled capital to take up the surplus, relying upon events which would repay it for the risk.

HARMONY THE REMEDY.

Democrats of Louisiana Recognize the Danger Ahead. New Orleans, February 9.—Ex-Governor Mc-Enery has written to Colonel A. Crandall, sug-gesting that as the condition of the democratic gesting that as the condition of the democratic party in Louisiana is critical, an offer be made to the Foster alliance combine to join the McEnery-ites in withdrawing all the present candidates for state officers and begin over again for the sake of unity and to defeat the republicans, although he knows his faction is in the majority. Mr. Crandall has addressed a letter to the chairman of the has audressed after to the chairman of the Foster alliance combine suggesting that a committee meet the McEneryites in joint state executive committee and arrange for new white primaries no later than March 15th to elect delegates to a fresh state democratic convention. The Foster side has declined to recognize Crandall as "chairman of the executive committee of the democratic party," as he signed himself.

THE END VERY NEAR.

No Change in the Condition of Ex-Governo Scales, of North Carolina. GREENSBORO, N. C., February 9.—[Special.]— There is no perceptible change in the condition of e -Governor Scales. At times, it looks as if the and was near, but he rallies. His death, at an time, is expected.

Tragedy in Mississippi. Greenville, Miss., February 9.—[Special.]— News has just been received here of a homicide News has just been received here of a homicide at Leesburg, twenty miles from here, on the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas railroad. Jonas Goodman was shot and killed by Dugay Ferguson, and Goodman's brother was badly wounded. The particulars could not be learned tonight. Goodman was a merchant and a large planter, and Ferguson is the son of General S. W. Ferguson, secretary and treasurer of the levee board. All the parties connected with the unfortunate affair are well known and popular. The affair is deeply regretted here.

A Large Meeting at Coal Creek CHATTANOOGA, February 9.—[Special.]—On the 12th instant there will be a notable gathering at Coal Creek. The Grand Army of the Republic, Knights of Labor and others will celebrate the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. As Chancellor H. R. Gibson, who made an incendiary speech to the miners during the last trouble, will address the assembly, trouble is feared during the following night. For the Hungry Russians. NEW YORK, February 9.—The Chamber of Commerce Russian relief committee today telegraphed £2,000 to the American minister at St. Pe

Several Prominent Alliancemen Said to Be Interested.

WHERE THE DEAL WAS CONSUMMATED.

And Who Were Present-An Attempt to Get the Endorsement of the Convention on the 22d Instant.

CHICAGO, February 9.—The Inter-Ocean publishes tomorrow a two-column expose of a scheme whereby the National cordage trust, through connivance with a number of leading alliance officials, is attempting to get control of not only all the present alliance stores in the country, but 4,000 additional ones the trust roposes starting. At this meeting, Macune, chairman of the national executive committee and editor of The National Economist; Coffin, state business agent for the Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association of Illinois; George G. Close, state agent of Dakota; Alonzo Wardall, Cole, president of the Michigan alliance, and various agents for a dozen other states were all present and in sympathy with the scheme and Wardall's statement to Whipple. All were conversant with the relation of the National cordage trust to that scheme.

It is also stated that Whipple has a letter from L. Waterbury, president of the National Cordage Company, stating that they were largely interested in the union company, and highly recommending it. The part of the scheme that has appealed so powerfully to the alliance agents is the commission of one-half of one per cent allowed to each state agent for all goods sold in his territory.

It is claimed that the National Union Company is preparing to capture the St. Louis conference on the 22d and get an endorsement. This will be strongly opposed by many alliancemen and some of the strongest papers in the organization whom the National Union people could not control. A special report from Dun's agency is published showing that on October 28, 1891, the company had not made a satisfactory showing. H. H. During Governor Boies's speech he was frequently cheered, and, at its conclusion, the applause was immense.

Lakewoop, N. J., February 6, 1892.—Hon. A. B. McKinley. My Dear Sir: My absence from home has necessarily postponed until this time a response to the courteous invitation I have received on behalfiof the Greystone Club to attend the annual banquet in commemoration of the birth of Samuel J. Tilden, on the 9th instant. I am not sure that this acknowledgement and expression of my regret that I am unable to accept your invitation will reach you before the evening fixed for the banquet, but I cannot refrain from an attemut to indicate to those who may be present the satisfaction in being remembered in the selection of your guests. This is a most excellent and appropriate time to recall the virtues and attributes of Samuel J. Tilden, the late great leader of the democracy of the land. In these days our party may remember, with extreme profit, his fire and patriotism, his ambition permeated with the desire for the welfare of his fellow countrymen; his splendid organizing ability, stimulated by his love of country and unstained with ignoble motives; his unyielding resistance to all that was undemocratic and unsafe and his stubborn insistence upon everything which had the clear sanction of his party principles.

These characteristics, combined with his love for the people and his unfaltering trust in their intelligence and fairmindedness, made him a great democrat, and we cannot go amiss if we accept him as our political example. I hope the barquet contemplated by your club will be an occasion full of invigoration to those who in the celefration of the 9th of February demonstrate their devotion to the political honesty and sincerity which haracter ized Samuel J. Tilden, and that those who are fortunate enough to participate will see, plainer than ever, their duty and mission in resistance within their party to all that is not safely and surely in accord with democratic faith. Yours very truly.

The Atlanta team has been practicing quite a while at Fort McPherson recently, and is said to be in excellent trim. When the university team of the state receives its title of championship it is the purpose of the Atlanta team to challenge it to a match game.

The list and positions of the Atlanta team are as follows:

The list and positions of the Atlanta team are as follows:

Ernest Adams, captain and right half back, is an exceedingly active man and a good runner. He is six feet two inches high and weighs 190 pounds. Mike O'Donnell is left half back, and a match for Adams in height, weight and activity.

J. T. Dickinson is full back, He is five feet, eleven and a nalf inches, weighs 190, is active, runs well and is an excellent player.

Chick Lagomarsino is quarteriback. He is five feet five inches and weighs 150 pounds. He is as active as a cat and is an excellent player.

Russell Cornell is center rush. A better man could not have been selected. Let him get the ball and he will have no trouble carrying it through the lines. He is five feet ten inches, weighs 180 pounds and is very active.

Robert Glenn is right guard. He is without doubt the man for the place, He is extremely quick and active. He stands five feet ten inches and weighs 145 pounds.

James Roach (Smoky) is left guard. There is no doubt but that he will be able to take care of this portion of the field in the same matchless manner that he holds down first base in the base-ball club. He is five feet eleven and one-half and weighs 189 pounds.

A. S. Marshall is right tackle. Marshall is five

A. S. Marshall is right tackle. Marshall is five feet eleven inches and weighs 100 pounds. He fills this position well.

Ren Coppedge (Baldy) is left tackle. He is five feet five inches, weighs 140 pounds. Coppedge is a good runner and tackles well.

Ed Allen is right end. He is five feet ten inches, weighs 160 pounds and is a good man for the place.

Jim Turner is left end. He is five feet six inches, weighs 160 pounds and is a hustler.

Besides the above named there are four substitutes, who are equally as good as the regular team. The team has been out practicing of late at the paracks and is getting in good condition for a contest.

A BRIGHT-EYED BABY

Found on a Doorstep and Carried to the

A little light-haired baby, with unknown parent-age, was carried to the Home for the Friendless yesterday morning.

Night before last Detective Harvey Hedford received an anonymous communication stating that a little white baby had been left at the home of Lize Stinson, a negro woman, 53 Gullatt street.
It was too late for him to investigate the matter that evening, and yesterday morning he went to the place, accompanied by Mrs. Brittain.
The information proved correct. He found a babe that the woman was caring for. On Saturday night a hack drove up to the house and one of the occupants dismounted.
A child was carried to the doorstep and left. As quickly as possible the vehicle turned about and went rattling down the street.
Lize Stinson heard the noise of the back and a moment later the walling cry of an infant. Sheopened the door and on looking out saw a bundled object.
The woman stooped down and discovered a baby wrapped in a bianket. As she lifted it up 35 cents in money and a note dropped out. The note asked the woman to take care of the child and stated that she would be well paid for doing so.

and stated that she would be well paint so, ing so.

The woman took it and acted according to instructions. She told no one of the affair and it was not until the anonymous note was received that it became known.

The baby was carried to the Home for the Friendless.

The old woman was loath to part with the child. She was unable totell anything at all about it, and had not even seen the hack in which the parties who brought the babe had come, but she confidently expected to be amply repaid for her trouble.

about the baby.

He stated that he was the father and seemed fearfully annoyed that the Saturday night occurrence had become known to the police. He had entrusted the babe in the care of Eliza Stinson and thought that it was all right there.

The young man refused to give his name. He was of medium build and had Jewish features.

PALMETTO POLITICS.

A South Carolina Farmer's Views on the Situation.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF TILLMAN'S RACE

It Is Said to Involve the Senatorial Suc cession and Is Being Worked by the Anti-Tillmanites to That End.

Your correspondent, in passing through South Carolina, between Columbia and Augusta, concluded he would have a talk with what seemed to be a representative farmer. There is great excitement in this state, especially along the railroad lines, and among the towns and cities on account of the effort to defeat Governor Tillman. The farmers seem to be disheartened and very reticent when it comes to talking politics.

There was a tall, good looking, and intelligent looking farmer on the train. I approached him, and asked him if he would frankly tell me the situation as he could see it. From what follows you will see that he was indeed a thinking and intelligent man.

"To start with," he said, "I was a Tillman man and did all I could to elect him in 1890. He has made us a good governor, and all this talk about his friends going back on him is all bosh. In some counties there are men opposed to him who were for him last year, and who are now influenced by local reasons. The farmers are going to stand by him, and mark my words, he is going to be re-elected, it don't matter who comes out. That little game that the newspaper editors are trying to play won't

"Haven't you noticed that the three papers of the state which have been abusing him, claiming that he can be easily beaten and that claiming that he can be easily beaten and that he would be beaten, have been meeting in Columbia and riving up states. If you haven't I'll tell you all about it. Their plan now is to first abuse him, get the people against him and then run ex-Governor Sheppard against him. Sheppard is only pulling the chestnuts out of the fire for some one else. I don't think they intend for him to be elected and don't care whether he is elected or not. Tilliman must either be beaten this year or they are afraid he will be the next United States senator. If Sheppard runs and is defeated then he has been of great advantage to a certain aspirant been of great advantage to a certain aspirant for the United States senate by helping to elect a few state senators who will hold over and vote in December, 1894, for General Butler's successor. If he is elected the supposition is that his aspirations don't go farther than to be governor twice, that is in '92 and '94, and he would not be a candidate for the United States senate. His coming out now is to keep all others out, because, if some other man would come out and defeat Tillman (if that is possible), he would be a lion in the state, and would be re-elected in 1894 and all the politicians in the state could not hinder him from being the next United States senabeen of great advantage to a certain aspirant n from being the next United States sena-

Then you think this is a senatorial race and "Then you tallie this is a sensitive and a not a race for governor?"

"Why, certainly. That is exactly what I am talking about. The election of Sheppard means the election of General Butler, as I see it, in December, 1894, to the United States senate. They think they are fooling the alliance, but the alliance, in proportion, has about as much brains as any organization ever about as much brains as any organization ever in this state, and to prove this I need only refer to its prominent leaders, Colonel W. J. Talbert, and its active and brainy president, Colonel J. William Stokes. The alliance may not elect Tillman as United States senator but they are not ready to say that a man who is unfriendly to them shall pull the wool over their eyes in this way just now."

I asked him what district he lived in. He told me that he lived in Aiken, but finding out that I was a correspondent he pledged me not to mention his name, saying that he did not care to be mixed up in politics now.

A. J. PINSON KILLED. His Gun Discharged While He Was Taking

It from a Buggy. NEWNAN, Ga., February 6 .- [Special.]-The ath of Mr. A. J. Pinson, which occurred at Moreland, near this city, has cast a gloom over the entire community. Mr. Pinson was on his return from his plantation, and stopped his buggy in front of the drug store of Dr. L. S. Young, in Moreland. He walked to the rear of his buggy and drew out a Winchester rifle with the muzzle pointing towards his body. The hammer caught on something in the foot of the buggy which accidentally disharged the gun. The ball entered the left breast about the third rib, and ranged upward, coming out immediately below the left shoulder blade. The shooting was purely accidental, and Mr. Pinson died within thirty minutes afterwards. He talked to those around him and expressed a great desire to see his wife and children before death. He left directions as to the disposition of his property and requested that he be buried with Masonic honors. His barial will take place in this city tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. He leaves a wife and seven children-five boys and two girls. No man was better known in this section of Georgia who was not in public life. His many friends and acquaintances will

MORE PAVED STREETS.

The Contractors Are Pushing the Work with All Speed Possible.

All Speed Possible.

Street paving and sidewalks and curbing are going down rapidly this year.

Since the 1st of January Simpson street has been belgian blocked from West Peachtree to Marietta street, and Atlanta thereby secures 2,800 feet less of mud and more of solid street. One thousand feet of belgian blocks have been added to the Boulevard, and that roadway, from Edgewood avenue to Decatur street, will know mud and mire no more.

The contractors are now working on Spring street and blocks are going down from Powers to Price just as fast as the block layers can sink them.

Hind their as rask as the block layers can share them.

Block laying on Georgia averne will begin just as soon as the street car company adjusts its track. Within a week that will be done and then the block brigade will be introduced to that end of the city.

Sidewalks have been finished on Tatnall and Baily streets this year and the gang is now at work on Houston and Jackson streets.

The sewer sinkers are now at work on Mitchell and Davis streets and Courtland avenue.

Trees and bushes are rapidly falling before the woodman's ax and the grubber's hoe and pick. It will take a week yet to clear the ground so that the work of removing the earth for the basins can begin. At the river the work is moving along nicely, as it is on the mile and a half of railroad track.

I'ipe laying is being energetically pushed except on Cain street, where a temporary halt has been called. That halt was caused because "joints" have not been received. These "joints" are to be made to suit the curves in the pipes, and as the exact "curve" could not be defined until the pipes were laid the "joints" could not be ordered. Now that the contractors know just what is wanted the "joints" have been ordered, and as soon as they arrive the line will be completed.

CAPTAIN WEST'S PLAN

To Raise Fulton County's Proportion of the World's Fair Exhibition Fund. Captain A. J. West, Fulton county's world's fair commissioner, has completed his plans for raising the county pro rata share of the $100,000 for the Georgia exhibition at the Columbian exposition. Fulton county's proportion of the $100,000 is $8,500, and Captain West does not anticipate any difficulty in raising that amount.

Commissioner West will, within the next few days, appoint a committeeman from each ward in Atlanta, and one from each district in the county. As soon as practical, after the appointments have been made, he will call the committeemen together, in Governor Northen's office, and confer with them on the most practical plan of securing the sum desired.

The committeemen will then be expected to actively canvass the territory allotted to them for subscriptions. Captain A. J. West, Fulton county's world's fair Preparing for the Rice.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—Rice planters are buying seed, fixing ditches, gathering up waste and burning it, and otherwise preparing for planting, which will begin in March. So far, little or no plowing has been done. This work will soon be started. Though, on the Savannah river, the acreage planted will be somewhat less than last year, two or three planters have announced their intention of letting some of their land rest this season. On the Satilla, Ogeechee and Altamaha rivers there will be little or no difference in the acreage. Although the yield was rather small last season, prices have been fair, and the planters, at least those on the Savannah river, have made money. With any kind of luck this year they will stand an excelent chance of making considerably more than the last crop yielded them.

TALLAPOOSA GROWS.

The Reason Explained by Facts and Figures.

A FAIR AND CONSERVATIVE SHOWING.

It Grows Because It Has Thirteen Big Industries, and the Number Keeps Increasing.

Well, it is a fact. Our state is so rich in Well, it is a fact. Our state is so rich in varied resources and so well equipped with natural advantages that it is a physical impossibility to find within her confines a considerable area of real estate that does not treasure in its bosom the dormant properties for an active town. And, after all, man has more to do with the saturator than all. ton," man can do the rest. And, after all, man has more to do with the situation than all other factors combined. Invincibility and determination of purpose on his part are half the record of success. Men fly to the side of such a spirit in emergencies of this kind as women seek the protecting arm of the strong and brave in times of danger; and under the inspiration of his prowess become active coworkers in the same cause.

When Romulus declared that he would build a city a spontaneous determination build a city a spontaneous determination crystallized in the hearts of all about him to assist in the undertaking except Remus, who doubtless was the progenitor of the modern day "kicker." He jumped over the walls of the new city in a spirit of derision, and, as good luck would have it, broke his leg. The halt in the gait of his species is therefore explained.

Aside from the fact that Romulus is not reported to have staked off any gold and iron beds previous to his city building, Rome became quite a village. Indeed, it was the postoffice of Cæsar and Brutus, the auditorium of Cicero and the site of the vatican, all of whom and which are occasionally referred to nowadays. Now, the difference between Rome and Tallapoosa is that the latter not only had gold and iron beds to start with but mineral waters and the best variety of Georgia climate. Having these as a basis her founders proceeded to build a town. While this interesting undertaking was getting under interesting undertaking was getting under interesting undertaking was getting under headway several Remuses appeared on the scene to try the vaulting process of their amiable forefather, and went away with bitterness in their hearts.

A genius of the kind recently made his appearance in Tallapoosa and afterwards turned up at Syracuse, N. Y., where, under the impenetrable misnomer of "A Responsible Citizen," he was reported by an envious newspaper as saying that Tallapoosa was destitute of resources and advantages, either natural or artificial. This worthy was so narrow and con-This worthy was so narrow and contracted that he could see only "one store" out of forty-odd large business houses. Even the electric lights, fifty-two of which brightly illuminate the streets at night, and one of the finest and best equipped systems of waterworks in the state, escaped his observation. The sarge of his vision would not permit him to select the nice dry sidewalks in every direction, and by his own humiliating admission he got stranded in the "mud knee deep" in broad daylight.

The Syracuse Standard was really cruel to come is "trees with control to come to the standard was really cruel to come in the strandard was really cruel to come in the strandard was really cruel to come the stranda permit its "responsible gentleman" to come so far south without a guardian. He might have fallen in the iron furnace while here, and gone back to Syracuse as an ash pan in one of the Howe ventilating stoves.

But such trifles aside. A careful investigation has convinced me that the industrial equipment of Tallapoosa is sufficient to make it a city of at least seven thousand inhabitants in the near future. Enough plants are in operation, and enough pledged to be in operation within the next sixty days, to create an active demand for every well-located building lot bounded by the city limits.

In Georgia, where the claims of a town are measured by its cotton receipts it is imposed.

In Georgia, where the claims of a town are measured by its cotton receipts, it is impossible to grasp at once the possibilities afforded by manufacturing industries. There is no town in Georgia of Tallapoosa's size that gets more than 20,000 bales of cotton. The average is less than that amount. It may also be safely said that in towns where there are no compresses, fully one-half of the cotton is shipped to non-resident factors and does not stop in the home towns at ali. But assuming that all of the receipts are sold at the home market and the cotton goes into specialties in fruits and vegetables. Each person sending an order will receive free a packet of lovely New Margaret Carnations. The catalogue is one of the prettiest of the season, and contains several large colored engravings.

An Invitation

is extended to the ladies of Atlanta by the Franco-American Food Company, of New York to call at the home market and the cotton goes into the local channels of trade, say at $40 a bale; this is equivalent to $800,000, and doesn't come in until near the end of the year. Now, here are eleven manufacturing plants in Tallapoosa which, when in full operation, will represent an investment of $1,132,000. Such of the stockholders as are concerned in the management of the plants have expended consider. ment of the plants, have expended considerable money on comfortable homes. This gives the real estate agent a chance and helps to increase the population and building interests of the town. Their wants are supplied through the local markets and almost through the local markets and almost every department of business is benefited by their presence. These same industries will employ, on a conservative calculation, 1,945 men, the familes of whom will average, say four persons, one less than the standard average. This will be 5,680 accessions, some of whom are already here at work in the mills. The are already here at work in the mills. The families of these 1,945 men must each have a home, and their children must have school facilities. The real estate dealers furnish the former and the absolutely free school system of the city affords the latter. But here is where the merchant steps up for his share: These 1,945 skilled and unskilled his share: These 1,945 skilled and unskilled wage-earners will receive in weekly and semi-weekly payments $779,800 per year for their work. This is about one hundred thousand dolars less than the cotton valuation amounts to, under its purposely, inflated value, but is distributed every week and fortnight through summer and winter. Is this not a bonanza for the retail merchants? Then here is the value of the annual product of these diversified industries to be added to the general assets. This will aggregate on a reliable estimate, $1.845,000. This does not include the Poosa Manufacturing Company—a big concern employing possibly $30,000 and fifteen or twenty hands. Nor does the enumeration of hands and estimate of the wages item include the Tallapoosa lumber manufacturing and railroad plant now being constructed by Messrs. Hitchcock. Crap and others. This mill will have capacity for 90,000 feet of lumber per day and will be and others. This mill will have capacity for 90,000 feet of lumber per day and will be supplied with raw material by a private railroad penetrating the heavy timber belt thirty miles south of Tallapoosa. Through this medium the Hitchcock Wagon, Buggy and Carriage Company will supply not only their own works with pine and hard timber, but also a similar institution at Courtland, New York. Mr. Madison Garretson, a railroad contractor of large experience, has the contract to build the road, the grading of which has already commenced. The mill machinery is now on its way to Tallapoosa. Mr. Garretnas arready commenced. The first machinery is now on its way to Tallapoosa. Mr. Garretson says that the work will be pushed to the speediest possible completion.

Owing to the general depression, some of the manufacturing plants in Tallaof the manufacturing plants in Tallapoosa are idle. Among these are the iron furnace, glass works and recilining chair factory. The Howe Ventilating Stove works, the value of whose annual product will amount to $300,000, are running, as are also the Tallapoosa Foundry and Machine works, Tallapoosa Cabinet Company, Poosa Manufacturing Company, Tallapoosa ice factory and city bottling works, all of which are large industries. The Hitchcock Manufacturing Company, the Swift Powder Company and the Hayes chair factory will begin operations in thirty or sixty days, at which time it is believed that there will be a general blowing of whistles in the manufacturing district. nanufacturing district.

will be a general blowing of whistles in the manufacturing district.

The Tallapoosa hotel, where I am staying, bears evidence of a continuous large floating population. It is a most excellent hostelry and is full of gnests all the time. Mr. George E. Leith, the genial proprietor, does not seem to be at all afraid of the $100,000 hotel overlooking Lythia Springs Park, which is nearly completed. He says there will be enough trade for all, and this is the sentiment of clever Ike Watson, who gracefully presides over the popular Georgia Pacific.

A striking illustration of Tallapoosa's growth is the remarkable success of the Merchants' and Miners' bank. This institution was incorporated December 4, 1890, and it has already paid three semi-annual dividends of 5 per cent each, besides adding a large surplus to its capital stock. President David Quackenbush and Cashier J. W. Caseldine are financiers of marked ability, and the influence of their progressiveness has had nuch to do with the growth of Tallapoosa. This city should be kindly cherished by Atlanta, for it contributes a large annual trade to that city. The Georgia Pacific road runs an accommodation train between here and Atlanta in addition to its regular daily passenger service, and the cars are always well filled with citizens of Tallapoosa; who are enabled by the convenient schedule to reach the city at 8 o'clock in the morning and return home for supper. There should, however, be an early morning train in Atlanta so as to afford Tallapoosa better mail facilities. She deserves it. The local newspapers, The Journal and Dispatch, also show signs of prosperity. The Journal's advertising columns look like a city dictionary, teeming as they are with business notices. Editors Mathews and Hall are able writers and their paper has a wide circulation. writers and their paper has a wide circula-tion. L. H. PATTILLO.

Several Persons in Athens Receive Wounds

Mrs. Davie, mother of Hon. F. T. Davie, died yesterday morning at her home in Flowery Branch. Mrs. Davie was over eighty years of age and was a devout and lovable Christian woman, whose greatest happiness was the good work of charity she has been engaged in for years. Her son, who was at one time a member of the legislature from Hall county, was with her at the time of her death. Her funeral will be largely attended at Flowery Branch today, several Atlanta people who knew the lady formerly going up.

MACON'S NEW HOTEL.

A Stock Company Proposes to Build a New One.

A CHANGE AT THE HOTEL LANIER.

At Least It Is Reported That One Will Be Made-Resignations of Deputy Marshals.

Macon, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—There are some very important matters transpiring in hotel circles in Macon. First of all a scheme developed today to raise a stock company to build a one-hundred-and-fifty-housand-dollar hotel on the triangular block site at the intersection of Secand and Cherry streets and Cotton avenue. The hotel will be of brick and four stories high. Some store buildings already occupy the site and others are in process of erection. The plan is to have stores on the ground or first floor, and the hotel occupy three floors above the stores. The kitchen will be on the top floor. The main sutrance will be at the intersection of Second street and Cotton avenue, facing the Confederate monument. There will also be an entrance near the intersection of Cotton avenue and Cherry street. Every room will be a front one. The hotel will be built with all the modern improvements.

Will There Be a Change? sand-dollar hotel on the triangular block Will There Be a Change?

Will There Be a Change?

It is generally reported that on tomorrow Manager I. D. Crawford will retire from the Hotel Lanier and Mr. Jack Clancey, lately in charge of the Southern at Chattanooga, will assume the management. Manager Crawford has had the Hotel Lanier six or seven years and is a very popular host, Manager Steny, of the Brown house, said today: "The Lanier passes into the hands of Mr. J. H. Clancey, of Chattanooga, in the morning and he will manage it for the present owners. In October last Messrs. Sam Altmayer, Ike Flaton, H, S. Morse, W. B. Strong and myself purchased the hotel property. Recently we decided that Mr. Clancey would be a good successor to Manager Crawford whenever Manager Crawford left. It will continue to be run as a first-class hostelry. There will be a number of improvements made and a palatial bar and billiard room will be put in."

Mr. Clancey was busily engaged today taking in inventory of the Lanier's effects. He said: Mr. Clancey was busily engaged today taking in inventory of the Lanier's effects. He said: "Yes, I will be in charge after today. I will make no change in the force at present. Besides putting in a fine bar and billiard room, the house will be thoroughly renovated and returnished."

Manager Crawford, when asked about the change, said: "I can only say that negotiations are pending. Matters stand now just as they did last October. The papers for the transfer have not been signed yet, and these will have to be, for I have a five-years' lease on the property."

MEETING Of the Board of Public Education-Resignations and Elections.

MACON, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—The board of public education met this evening.

The resignations of W. J. Heard, of Mount Pleasant school; Miss Katie McKay, of Orange street school, fifth class, and the teacher of Avondale school, were accepted. Fannie Duggan was elected principal of Mount Pleasant school, Miss Geraldine McAndrew to the Orange street school, was even and Miss. the Orange street school vacancy, and Miss Alice Sullivan, of Walden, was elected prin-cipal of the Avondale school. The election of supernumeraries for Second street and South Macon schools was postponed to the next regular meeting.

A communication from Clerk Smith, of council, was read relative to the action of council concerning the care of school property. The thanks of the board were voted for the resolution offering to put Second street school resolution offering to put Second street school in repair.

A petition from Roscoe Appling, asking for a schoolhouse in East Macon, was read and referred to the committee on districts and sites.

The board decided to accept the Planter's school property, and instructed that the deeds be turned over to the attorney.

Harkness's Latin Reader was adopted for the C class in the high schools.

After the usual routine of auditing bills and considering reports, the board adjourned.

DEPUTY MARSHALS RESIGN.

HIS HEAD WAS HARD,

And When a Raliroad Train Struck Him

It Did Him No Harm.

Greenesboro, Ga., February 8.—[Special.]
Bacton Higgins, a one-legged negro, is entitled to the honor of having the hardest head of any man in Georgia.

Yesterday Higgins loaded himself with whisky and started for a walk down the Georgia railroad track. About a mile from town the whisky got the best of him and he lay down on the track for a nap. While he was serenely slumbering the up passenger train came thundering along. Engineer Kirksey saw the sleeping negro and endeavored to check the train, but the engine rushed upon Higgins, the pilot striking him in the head and throwing him some distance from the track. The train was finally stopped, Higging picked up and placed on the engine and brought back to the depot at Greenesboro. His head was covered with blood, he was groaning and apparently almost dead. Higgins was turned over to Dr. J. H. Gheesling, the railroad's surgeon, who made an examination. He found that the engine had cut the flesh wide open on the top of the head to the bone, but the skull was neither crushed or fractured. He dressed the wounds and in an hour after the accident Higgins was hopping around on his peg-leg as lively as though he had never had a collision with an eighty-ton locomotive. Higgins has been noted for his hard skull, but his last feat excels all previous ones. We have frequently seen men split a hard pine board, an inch thick, wide open by butting it with the top of their heads. It is perhaps lucky for the railroad that Higgins was knocked from the track. If the wheels had struck his head in place of the pilot, the train would certainly have been ditched and the engine demolished.

Attempt of Prisoners in Pulaski Jail to Escape.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., February 9.—[Special.]—
The prisoners confined in Pulaski county jail at this place made a bold attempt to escape last night and would have succeeded but for the vigilance of Mr. Seals Huut, son of Sheriff W. G. Hunt. There are five prisoners confined in the jail and last night they set fire to the heavy sills with which the cells are floored, hopping to burn their way to the corridor which surrounds the iron cage. They had nearly burned through two 12x12 sills when the fire was discovered.

The prime mover in the attempt seems to have been Jason Flowers, who was convicted at the last term of the court of the murder of Mr. Charles Mitchell and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. The fire, which was quickly extinguished, was discovered about 9 o'clock last night.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy. NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED,

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

Justice to Hill.

There is no possible objection to Cleveland Club in Atlanta or elsewhere. No matter what the name of the club may be, the members thereof, in their organized capacity, can do good and necessary work for the party. The Grover Cleveland Club, of Mansfield, O., has lately changed its name to the David B. Hill Club. The name is a mere matter of taste or sentiment. The club is an organization which is intended to further the cause of the democratic party. That sterling democrat, Captain W. D. Ellis, put the matter very clearly when, in taking his seat as the president of the Atlanta Cleveland Club, he said: "We are not organized to defeat David B. Hill-we have no war to make on any democrat."

This ought to be the spirit of every member of the club, and yet the resolutions which were adopted contain a fling at Senator Hill which is out of place in the proceedings of any democratic organization. In the concluding resolution there is an insinuation that David B. Hill would be "an objectionable candidate, and an appeal is made to all democrats to see that their wishes are not thwarted by the manipulation of political machinery in New York, or elsewhere, that seeks to put an objectionable candidate on the country."

Objectionable to whom? Certainly not to the democrats of Georgia or of the south, who have watched him strangle the corruptest republican organization which ever won power by fraud. Certainly not to the democrats of the country, who have seen him wrest the great state of New York from the control of a vicious republican gang, and place it permanently in the democratic column. Why, even Henry Watterson, the most ardent and by far the ablest Cleveland man of them all, turns with scorn on those democrats who can find no better occupation than the reproduction of republican slanders against this great democratic leader.

"We take no stock," says Mr. Watterson, in The Courier-Journal, "in the abuse which has been so copiously heaped upon Mr. Hill. He is as good a democrat as Mr. Cleveland, and a better politician. He served his party as faithfully in 1888 as any man could serve it. All that is said to the contrary is pure invention and calumny. We have not the least doubt that if he were elected president, he would make a safe, sound and wise democratic president, just as he made a safe, sound and wise democratic governor. The assaults upon his character made by so many democrats, echoing the hatred he has earned from republicans by democratic victories, are creditable neither to their love of justice nor to their good sense. Mr. Hill is a young man, and has the world before him. He is an able man, and with or without the presidency, is sure to make a career, and a great one."

This is the attitude of all true democrats toward Mr. Hill. "He served his party in 1888 as faithfully as any man could serve it," and "all that is said to the contrary is pure invention and calumny." "He would make a safe, sound and wise president!" What a contrast between this true democrat and real friend of Grover Cleveland and those who are engaged in "echoing the hatred" which David B. Hill has "earned from the republicans by democratic victor-

Here is a distinguished democratic editor and leader who rises superior to whatever personal prejudices he may entertain, and does justice to Mr. Hill, to himself, and to the democratic party. It is an example which smaller men than Mr. Watterson might profitably hasten to

Well does Chairman Atkinson, of the state democratic executive committee, advise against such a narrow and bigoted policy, in an interview published elsewhere in this issue.

Gladstone for the Farmers.

England's grand old man is adding another laurel to his brow by his outspoken advocacy of the rights of the British farmers.

This old man of eighty-four turns aside from his public and private affairs to contribute to The London Star a notable article on the farmers and their wrongs. Mr. Gladstone says that the real progress of the English farmers dates from the repeal of the laws which prohibited their joint action through combined organizations. They bear many burdens, lead lonely lives, and do not enjoy the facilities of the town people for need organization, the manly self-assertion of their rights, favorable legislation and effective local governments.

The best road out of his difficulties, Mr. Gladstone thinks, lies in the farmer's manly and discriminative use of the ballot. Of course the agricultural conditions in England differ in many respects from those existing in this country, but the points embodied in the advice of this great statesman are capable of beneficial application here, and deserve attention. It is an encouraging sign of the times to see the foremost minds of the world enlisted on the side of the farmers in their struggle for the advancement of their condition.

Hill the Man.

A correspondent suggests that the discussion in regard to Hill and Cleveland is calculated to produce discord, but we think he is mistaken. It is not an inharmonious discussion, and it is decidedly necessary at this time. There is nothing personal about it save in the opinions of those shortsighted editors who have been trying to make republican abuse and slander of David B. Hill ound sweet to democratic ears. The fact that Mr. Cleveland failed to carry New York in 1888 and that he has no democratic following in that state now has nothing to do with his personality. His character is above reproach and he is a man of undoubted honesty and integrity. He has no advantage over Senator Hill in respect of these things, but he has the advantage of being farther away from republican and mugwump abuse. When he was governor of New York The New York Times and the gang that revolves about it employed epithets in describing him as vile as those they have employed against David B. Hill. They did not hate him as thoroughly as they hate Hill, for the reason that Hill's democracy is of a more active and uncompromising pattern.

We say the discussion is not'an inharmonious one. We do not take into account those democratic editors who seem to be possessed with the idea that Mr. Cleveland is better than his party, and who have sublimated him into a sort of abstract principle of a superior sort. These editors will have to be left alone with the Cleveland myth, to worship it and to gloat over it to their hearts' content. They will wake up to the folly of their preoccupation after awhileno doubt in time to do good work in the approaching campaign.

The discussion that is now going on has for its focus the man who is most available as a democratic candidate—the man who is most likely to win success for the party. Just at present the name of that man is David Bennett Hill. But the name is nothing, the fact is everything. The name might be Williams, Watterson, Jones or Smith. It happens to be Hill, and for that reason THE CONSTITUTION and the democrats of Georgia who want the party to succeed are for Hill. If some other person had his record and enjoyed his prestige we should unhesitatingly advocate the other person. for that record and that prestige are the facts that stand for the character of the man and his achievements. They show beyond all question that he is not only the most available candidate, but that he is worthy of the success which he has won and which he promises to win.

Let democrats consider the situation seriously and impartially. What is the chief, indeed the only, obstacle to tariff reform and to those other reforms which the democratic party desires to put in execution? Simply and solely the lack of democratic success. Under these circumstances, is not democratic success worth striving for? The threatened Cleveland bolt in New York state merely emphasizes the availability of David B. Hill. His firm hand can be depended on to put down and dispose of this clamorous broad of malcontents. He grows out of the situation naturally, confirming the impressions of those who have watched his career, and lending wings to democratic hope. With a fatuousness unparalleled, the bolters have made Hill a necessity. No other democrat can, as matters stand, carry the state of New York-no other democrat can smash this busy conglomeration of woodenheaded mugwumps and democratic tramps. It is not only in Georgia and the south that the party is turning to David B. Hill as its leader. Democrats everywhere recognize in him the man to lead them to victory.

The State Agricultural Convention. The session of the Georgia State Agricultural Society, which begins today at Cuthbert, is one of the most important meetings ever held by our farmers.

The society now, as in the past, thoroughly represents every section of the state, and every class of our agricultural interests. It has always embraced in its membership our leading minds and our most progressive small farmers, as well as our most enterprising large planters. The papers read before this body are valuable additions to our industrial literature, and many of them have commanded attention abroad, as well as at home.

Just at this time, when so much depends upon the united action and perfect harmony of the people who control the great basis industry of the republic, all the local differences of the past should be buried in the grave of the past, and all should devote their serious consideration to the vital matters to be discussed and settled.

Among other things, our farmers will discuss the cotton problem. The proposed reduction of acreage will, of course, receive thoughtful attention, but there is another thing of equal importance that should not be overlooked. While considering the reduction of acreage, why not investigate the much-needed reduction of the cost of production? Is there any practical and desirable way to reduce the cost of production? Answer this question in the affirmative, and it will be a distinct gain to southern agriculture. We have sometimes produced four or five bales of cotton to the acre, but the average now is about four acres to the bale. Such a statement suggests a world of comment, and it is to be hoped that the convention will deal with this and other unfavorable conditions now existing, and agree upon the line of conduct promising the best results. Diversified and intensive farming, and many other topics of material interest, will be discussed at this meeting, and we feel satisfied in advance that the outcome will be of great benefit to all.

It is encouraging to see our railroads so willing to recognize and favor the society. communicating with each other and taking | The free passes issued to the members, both organized action for their interests. They going and returning, show a disposition on the part of our transportation lines to aid and stimulate progressive agriculture in a graceful, timely and serviceable manner. If there is another state in the union where the railroads extend this privilege to the agriculturists, the fact has never yet been made public.

THE CONSTITUTION salutes the Georgia farmers at Cuthbert, and proposes to be with them!

THE DEMOCRATIC people of New York are just as solid for Hill as they would be for any other democrat who had the ability to lead them out from under the republican yoke.

Now THAT Mr. Blaine is no longer a candidate the boom of the Pan-American congress may be expected to wither.

IT IS A pity that the At'anta Cleveland club should begin business by alluding to Mr. Hill as "an objectionable candidate." Hill's politics are not of a kind to be objectionable to southern democrats.

A LITTLE STORM clears the atmosphere. The democratic outlook was never brighter than it

LEADING EDITORIALS.

"Rats!"

From The New York Metropolis, Dem.

Because of Governor Hill's heroic veto of republican appropriations three years ago, supplemented by the rigid economy of a democratic as-sembly last year, and the restoration by the gen-eral government of the direct taxes paid by the state during the war, the state is now practically out of debt and has a large surplus in its treasur That surplus is a sore temptation to the party which controlled the billion-dollar congress, and which succeeded in dissipating the immense surplus left in the federal treasury hy President Cleveland, and reducing that treasury to the verge of bankruptcy. Our republican friends have no need of surpluses. To them "a national debt is a national blessing," and public treasuries should, in their estimation, be promptly emptied. A delegation of them went to Albany recently to urge an increase of the appropriation for state representation in the Chicago world's fair. They ere making their appeal to Governor Flower, and dilating on the healthy condition of the state treasury, with its surplus of $4,000,000, which would justify a most liberal appropriation. "Rats!" replied the governor, "Rats! Rats! Rats!" And now we hear no end of republican and mugwump criticism of Governor Flower for his lack of dignity and contemptuous treatment

A Leader Who Can Lead.
From The Connecticut Catholic, Dem.
The recent democratic victory in New York state is the most brilliant political triumph of nodern times. For almost a generation legislative branch of the state government had been republican. It was easy enough to elect democratic state officers, but owing to the borough system of representation maintained by the re-publicans, and their prevention of a re-apportionment, it seemed impossible to make the state democratic in its ex-ecutive and legislative branches. Cleveland tried it and failed. Hill tried it and failed. Then Hill tried it again and failed again. But he tried it again and succeeded. The brilliant victory of last November is due more to the advice and efforts of Hill than any other man. When the republicans tried to steal the senate he stood in the breach and prevented it. When their organs and the mugwump press tried to drive him out of Albany before the end of the term to which the people had elected him, he wasn't to be driven. And when the court of appeals decided that the state senate was democratic, and it was made clear that at last. After many years of effort,

New York state was democratic, both in its executive and legislative branches, it was made apparent why Hill had remained at Albany. The sneers of the mugwump organs and the abuse of the republican press were silenced. Results had spiked their guns.

It was apparent that the New York democracy had a leader who knew how to lead. It was evident that the most skillful political general of modern times had guided the party through a tortuous path to the summit of political posses-

David B. Hill is the leader who can lead!

ECHOES OF MONDAY NIGHT.

THE CONSTITUTION office was almost besieged resterday by people who came to say that they had been quoted incorrectly in being put down as favoring the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. As a great number of these gentlemen put it:

"While I am a great admirer of Mr. Cleveland, I cannot in fairness be put down as favoring his nomination. I believe the only question for democrats to consider at this time is that of availability, and if Mr. Hill is the choice of the doubtful states, he is clearly the most available man."

It was an oft repeated story. A conservative Alabama street merchant, who was one of these, sized up the situation this way: "I firmly believe," he said, "that nine-tenths of the men put down as Cleveland men in the published interviews endorse THE CONSTITU-TION'S views of the situation. We in the south can't afford to be chasing shadows. We want a man who can be elected. I have always been an enthusiastic Cleveland man, but I don't believe he's the man to be nominated. If he is not the choice of New York and the other doubtful states, he certain y is not the man."

The Cleveland meeting went so far as to appoint on the committee on resolutions a an who is unalterably opposed to Mr. Cleveland. Of course this was natural, as there were so many Hill men in the hall that night. The gentleman referred to is Mr. L. P. Barnes, and he expresses his views in the following card: EDITOR CONSTITUTION-In your report of the Cleveland club meeting last night at the court-house, I notice that my name appears among the committee on resolutions. Permit me through the same medium to return thanks for the honor conferred, but without my knowledge or consent. I went by the courthouse with a visiting friend from Florida, and left before the meeting was called to order. Had I remained I could not nor would not have served; not that I underestimated the prominence it conferred, but because I had never been an admirer of Mr. Cleveland, either as a politician, as a statesman, or as an occupant of the executive chair. Besides, his blunders have been so great and disastrous to his party as a leader, and his arrogancy and dictatorship so uncalled for as a party manager that he forfeited the esteem and confidence of those who were charmed first by the novelty of his marvelous career. ommittee on resolutions. Permit me through marvelous career.

Therefore, I am not for Mr. Cleveland, and cannot afford to be put on record against my principles, as the club meeting last night was reported. It was, no doubt, through some good friend, and not done to mislead intentionally.

L. P. BARNES.

The easiest work THE CONSTITUTION re curing the magnificent array of interviews favoring Mr. Hill, and supporting the position of those who urge that the wishes of the doubtful states should govern the national con vention in its nomination. In a short while Sunday afternoon-the worst day in the week to secure such interviews-there was gathered seven columns of the strongest kind of talks from the strongest men in the city.

The article was pronounced everywhere to be showing absolutely unanswerable. The foft repeated claims that Atlanta and Fulton county were for Cleveland's nourination were completely knocked out. And it was very easy work.

Hill men, who were at the Cleveland meeting are to be found on all sides. They were talking about it everywhere vesterday, and the disappointment of the managers at the small attendance was very freely commented on "It is an open question," said one of those

I desire to say that I have never seen any reporter; and while I have a friendly feeling toward Mr. Cleveland, I am strong in the belief that the wishes of the doubtful states should be considered, and the man they favor nominated." Celonel Emmet Womack, the brilliant and humorous solicitor of the Flint circuit, has had his weather eye turned on the political situation for some time. His judgment is unfailing in political matters and here's what he says: "Why, it would be disregarding the wishes of the people to nominate Cleveland. Mr. Hill is the choice of the people, and is the man to win with. Let me tell you what my opinion is about the strength of Mr. Hil I believe that in the country districts are for him. I have been among the people, and that is my impression. Hill is sure to be the nom-inee of the democratic party. It would be a mis-take not to nominate him."

Now Put Up or Shut Up!

EDITOR CONSTITUTION-Any one who knows anything about the political situation ought to know that the party is doomed to a certain defeat if Mr. Cleveland is nominated. It is a bad policy to enter a defeated horse for the next day's Derby.

But Mr. Cleveland will not be the nomince-the democratic party being composed of men of solid, hard sense, who will listen to reason and who will be governed accordingly. I am aware of the fact that there are a great many extremists, who would rather see Cleveland nominated and defeated than not minated at all, who are loudly proclaiming that the democracy must nominate him, and that it will do so.

Now, if any of them mean what they say, and want to back their judgment, I will give them a chance to do so.

I will give $1,000 to the Grady hospital if Governor Hill has not a large majority, if not all, of the delegates from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, if any man will agree to give the same amount unless Mr. Cleveland makes the same showing.

I will put up $1,000 for the Grady hospital. against the same amount, that Mr. Cleveland will not receive a majority, if any, of the votes of Georgia's delegates in the national democratic

I will put up $1,000 against $500, for the Grady hospital, that the doubtful states-New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Indiana—will go to the national convention with not one-third of their number in favor of Cleveland, if anybody will make a similar offer to the contrary. Now this is a good chance for some of the windycrats, who seem to be determined to defeat their party or carry out their purpose, to show that they mean what they say. Any communication, accepting any of the above propositions, will receive prompt attention if addressed between now and next Saturday to the undersigned, care Box D, Advertising Department.

More Pungent Than Polite. The Topeka, Kan., Democrat pitches into its contemporary, The Capital, for reproducing an anti-Hill paragraph from The Charleston News and Courier, and says:

Palmetto State without prestige or circulation. It belongs to the old school of ante-bellum yaps in the south who were, but are not.

"The Charleston News, reflecting on the host of democratic papers in the south that are for Hill, reminds one of the juryman who claimed that the other eleven fellows were stupid, bull-headed chappies because they would not side with him."

NEWS OF SOCIETY.

Yesterday afternoon Colonel Thomas P. Stovall a capitalist, well known in Georgia, and Miss Genie Orchard, of this city, were married at the home of the bride at 91 Capitol avenue. The marriage occurred at 5 o'clock, and was a quiet one, only a few relatives and friends present. Rev. G. R. Strickler performed the cere mony in a beautiful and impressive manner. The bride wore a traveling gown, an imported tailor-made gown of heather cloth of gray russet and brown, made demi-train and trimmed with seal fur. She carried a large bunch of bride roses. She is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Orchard, of this city, belonging to an old and highly nonored Carolina family. Carolina family. She is a woman of many remark able gifts and is possessed of great personal charm, being extremely pretty and having a delightful manner and lovely nature. WINCHESTER, Va., February 9.-[Special.]-One of the most brilliant weddings ever witnessed in this historic and aristocratic little city took place at 6:30 this evening, when Miss Marcie Forrest Hunter, daughter of Major R. W. Hunter, was united in marriage to Dr. John Pendleton Camp-bell, of Athens, Ga. The bride, who is a tall, handsome brunette, comes of one of the most aristocratic families in Virginia. Christ Protes-tant Episcopal church was beautifully decorated with palms and flowers, which formed a striking packground for the brilliant bridal party, while Rev. Dr. N. P. Dame tied the nuntial knot. Lohengrin bridal chorus was rendered by a party of young matrons in white as the bridal party approached the altar. There were twelve bridesmaids, twelve coomsmen and four ushers, making, with the corus, a resplendent party of about forty persons in magnificient costumes grouped about the altar. A reception and supper at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony, after which the newly married couple left on a special train for a short tour north. A meeting of the ladies composing the committees from St. Luke's and St. Philip's churches to complete the arrangements for the reception in honor of Bishop Nelson was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of St. Luke's cathedral. The eception will be held on the 24th at the executive ansion. The governor and Mrs. Northen kindly placed the mansion at the disposal of the ladies. The ladies from St. Philip's are: Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, Mrs. Connelly, Mrs. George DeSaussure, Mrs. Dickson, Mrs. Harwood and Mrs. Smythe. From St. Luke's the ladies are: Mrs. Ed Peters, Mrs. Matt Walker, Mrs. George Fraylor, Mrs. William Dickson, Mrs. A. H. Lucke and Mrs. Barrett.

At the rehearsal of The Pirates of Penzance, last night, the full opera was studied, all solos, duets, trios and choruses being sung and the dialogue spoken. IT'S FOR HILL.

The Rome Tribune Wants the Man Who Can Win.

LEAVES CLEVELAND FOR DAVID B. HILL.

It Recently Favored Cleveland, but Can't for Hill.

Rome, Ga., February 9.-[Special.]-The sensation here today is the announcement nade in the editorial columns of The Rome Tribune, which has hitherto favored Cleveland, that henceforth the paper will advocate the nomination of David B. Hill for the presidency. To say that the announcement created a sensation is putting it mildly. It was the talk of the town.

Hon. John J. Seay, proprietor of

The Tribune, having large interests to manage in other lines of business, has not been giving much of his time to newspaper work.

But he was "on deck" yesterday, and the result is this editorial thunderbolt in The Tribune this proprint.

bune this morning:

The proprietor of this paper, being convinced that the democracy of Georgia is overwhelmingly that the democracy of Georgia is overwhelmingly for Senator H. II., commits The Tribune-of-Rome to the cause of David B. Hill and democratic suc-cess in November.

This was a "startler," and was immediately followed by a long and ringing editorial, in which The Tribune declares its loyalty to Hill, as the best man to lead the democratic hosts to victory. The following is an extract from the editorial:

Hill is a leader of the people. He is an organizer. He caters to democratic ideas and democratic voters only: is a bold, aggressive and skillful leader; a splendid fighter, and when he downs the infamous republican party he not only framps the life out of it, but wears its scalp at his belt. Give us Senator Hill as a leader and democratic success is assured. He h.s always brought victory to his party by his own dauntless courage and energy. He will force the fight and circumvent the enemy, for in the language of an Elmira democrat, "No such democratic leader has appeared since the days of Andrew Jackson."

"What accounts for this sudden change in

What accounts for this sudden change in

The Tribune?" is a question which has been frequently asked here woday.

The answer is simple enough. Captain Seay is a far-seeing man. He has recently visited Washington, New York and other cities, and he sees the drift of popular sentiment is toward Hill, and that Hill it will be. Then again, the overwhelming sentiment of Atlanta, as given in The Constitution, has had its effect here, and Hill men are cropping out on all sides.

The Tribune is "in it," and its proprietor means business

Mr. Cleveland has many followers in this section but from a consensus of opinion Mr. Hill appears very decidedly to be the choice of the people. Tomorrow morning's Tribune makes a call for a mass meeting to organize a Hill club.

GOOD ADVICE FROM THE CHAIRMAN.

Suggestion to the Press. Hon, W. Y Atkinson, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, was in the city yesterday on his way to Douglasville, today.

On being asked by a representative of THE Constitution his opinion concerning the presidential outlook, Mr. Atkinson said:

"I am chairman of the state committee, and I do not think that it becomes me at this time to go into a discussion of that question from a personal standpoint.
will say something on this which comes from the bottom of my heart, and which is said calmly and with the hope that my words will be taken in the same spirit in which they are spoken.

"I earnestly hope that the democratic press of Georgia, in advocacy of its particular preference for the democratic presidentia nomination, will say nothing against either Hill or Cleveland which will become embarrassing in the event of the nomination of either of the two.

either of the two.

"The democratic press of the state has if perfect right to, and should, discuss the question of fitness and availability, for democratic success next time is of great importance to the people of the south. But no democratic process and availability is not democratic the people of the south. aper should vituperate or abuse any dem-cratic leader. It is not the right spirit, and it is not for the best interests of the party.
It is playing into the hands of the enemy.
"Let every democrat have and express, if he desires, his preference, but not in a way that can be construed as offensive or injurious to any great leader, for whoever is nominated should and must have the united support of the democratic press of the country."

TO THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION. HIS SKULL IS TERRIBLY CRUSHED.

No Office Holders Accepted and Only White Business Men Wanted-A Black Eye to the Politicians.

There was a full-fledged sensation in the ranks of the republicans of Atlanta yesterday. Today it will sweep the state like a cyclone and its effect will leave much uneasiness of mind in some quarters.

It was produced by the slow cracking of what at first looked to be an innocent little nut, sent by President Harrison and his lieutenants to the republican leaders of Georgia. It was quietly opened yesterday morning, and the meat therein thoroughly digested by those for whom it was intended, and the eating prouced rather dyspeptic and disordered results.

No Office Holders Wanted.

"The president and the national committee lo not want any politicians or office holders in he national convention."

That was the message brought the Atlanta epublicans by R. R. Shiel, of Indiana, Mr. Harrison's next door neighbor and warm pernal and political friend.

And this was anything but pleasant news to the federal office holders of Georgia. This puestion now presents itself to them: Shall ey defer to the president's pleasure, and take back seat, or not?

Not to do so would mean to incur the diseasure of the powers; to do so will be a powrful blow to the ambition of more than one udividual who is holding a position under the dministration in Georgia, and who has been ursing the lofty aspirations of being a reprentative to the national republican conven-

The result is that the local republicans do not take to the idea at all, and are considering eriously just what action to take in regard to

"Rhody" Shiel, of Indianapolis, in company ith ex-Governor Porter and others, arrived n Atlanta early Monday morning, ostensibly n their return bome from Florida. But Mr. Shiel had entirely another object in iew in his visit. He comes as the representtive of President Benjamin Harrison, and his

There must be no federal office holders in he Minneapolis convention. The delegates must be business men and, poreover, they must be white men!

Of the president's wishes in this respect, Ir. Sniel is quoted as saying: "He knows be republican sentiment in Georgia, and ows that it is all right, but what he wants that sentiment expressed in the convention business men and not politicians. He does ot want a single man appointed as a delegate hat holds any government position, or that in any way under obligations to the admintration. Of course the president expects his pointees to see to it that a solid Harrison legation is sent to the convention, but he ants them selected from among 'white' busies men. This same request will be made in ther southern states. If Mr. Harrison gets tenomination, which he undoubtedly will, wants to be able to say in the campaign at he was nominated by the people and not sat he was nominated by the people and not is office holders." All of which was very sad to the office holders, and especially sad was it take brother in black.

It knocks them out completely. It means that the negro workers will have no chance at all. The visions of the "bar"ls" of Governor Alere, or other candidates, vanish, and there is sorrowing among the faithful.

That element, whose greatest interest in politics is the money that their votes will bring, was, naturally, badly put out by this new edict fresh from the white house.

Others Were Disappointed.

Others Were Disappointed. But they were not alone in their disappoint-But they were not alone in their disappointment. The delegation had already practically been made up. It had been fixed that Boss Buck and the other office holders should be the men to go on to Minneapolis, and tell of the brilliant outlook for the g. o. p. in Georgia, and it is very hard to have their plans spoiled. The Constitution's publication of the slate, as it had been made up, slate, as it had been made up, did it. Buck was to have headed the delegation-at-large. The other three stated candidates were office holders, and all the candidates from this district were government office holders. They will all have to go. Colonel Ed Angier and Surveyor of Customs Wimbish were to have been the fifth district delegates—but it won't go now.

Effect of the Message. Whatever the effect of this new order of things may be, it is anything but pleasant to the old ring. There was a good deal of "cussing" over the situation in Atlanta yesterday, and as the important decree is discussed over the state, the general results will no doubt be very much akin to the local effect.

Savaral leading rapublicants were asked very much akin to the local effect.

Several leading republicans were asked about the matter, but beyond the admission that the message had been received, would say nothing. When asked if the request would be adhered to or not, they simply replied that it would be considered.

It is said that things were exceedingly stormy in two or three private caucuses where the matter was under discussion yesterday.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Runaway Accident.

And His Body Badly Bruised and Laccerated by Being Dragged Some Distance.

Alex Brown, a white man, met a terrible death in Atlanta last night.

He was the victim of a runaway accident, being caught in the wheels of a wagon and dragged to death. The accident happened on Peachtree street about 8 o'clock. Brown was driving a cart belonging to Mr. Joseph Thompson, on whose farm he had been employed. At the junction of Broad street, the horse became frightened and began dashing up Peachtree. The driver tried to check him, but as he arose reeled and was thrown partly out of the wagon. The animal dashed on all the faster. As he fell, Brown was caught in the spokes of one of the front wheels. His left leg became entangled, and he was thrown with his head against the street. In this position the man was dragged along by the frightened horse, which dashed on at an increased rate. The foot of the unfortunate driver remained hanging in the spokes; his body was whirled around and around, while his head dragged over the rough, stony

A number of people saw the runaway horse and his victim, but none were able to stop the animal until he had neared the junction of Cain street. Just in front of the executive n Olie Akril, a young boy, stepped in front of the team and succeeded in checking

As quickly as possible Brown was extricated and medical aid summoned. Dr. Lawshe and Dr. Grandy responded, and they found the man in a dying condition. A large hole was found in the left side of

The doctors saw at once that nothing could be done for the injured man. He was unconscious and it seemed wonderful that his fearful ride of nearly three blocks had not produced instant death. The city ambulance was sent for and Brown was removed to the Providence infirmary. He was beyond all medical assistance and he died shortly after 10 o'clock. Brown was thirty-four years of age, and for the past six months had been employed on the farm of Mr. Joseph Thompson. He was on his way there last night when the fatal accident occurred. He was an excellent hand and The body was taken to Patterson's under-taking establishment, to be prepared for

His proposed resignation and the telegram withdrawing it were considerbly discussed yester-

When Captain Couch left Atlanta ten days ago for Denver his resignation was in the hands of the board of police commismissioners to be acted upon at the regular meeting in February. The captain had made an agreement to serve Solicitor Thomas and had promised to surrender himself to that official of the city court when Solicitor O'Bryan stepped out.

But immediately after Captain Couch left Atlanta some funny rumors were circulated.

Of those who knew Couch there were some who laughed at the rumors. Others, however, aided in giving them circulation.

With these rumors was coupled a declaration that Couch would never come back to Atlanta. But Couch's devoted service to Atlanta immediately after the war, when Couch never retreated in without carrying his colors with him, and when he heard of what was being done with him when he was 1.50 miles away, sent a telegram to the chief of police withdrawing his resignation.

Tomorrow he'll be here and then will have his say.

Tomorrow he'll be here and then will have his say.

The stories are being repeated frequently and with much emphasis, but there are just as many who treat them as a joke as there are who give them any credit.

"I have known Couch for years." said an old Atlantian yesterday, "and I know that he's just as square as square can be. Since the war he has been with us as an officer, and if anybody can show me where he has ever shirked a duty I'll stand, the treat all around. Couch is a little rough sometimes but diamonds are found that way. We don't want a hilly there, we want a man who knows what he's doing. When Couch comes he'll have to face the music, and the chances are there'll be fun."

In the meantime the police department is somewhat exercised.

Those who paid yesterday saved sheriff's costs but had to pay receiver's costs.

But in all cases this did not exceed what the interest on the money would have been.

Several Damage Cases Settled.

Several Damage Cases Settled.

The case of John Kent against the Richmond and Danville road was settled in Judge Van Epps's court yesterday without going to a jury. He sued for $25,000 damages. He was injured in the yards of the Richmond and Danville while standing on a ladder which was resting against the side of a passenger roach. He was cleaning the coach and a sleeper was backed against it, hurling him from his position. He was badly injured. The case was compromised for $2,200.

The case of Bartow Barnes against the Richmond and Danville was also compromised without a trial before a jury. Barnes received $750. His arm was crushed while coupling cars.

Arnold & Arnold were the attorneys in both of these cases.

In the case of Nickerson vs. the Georgia Pacific road, Mr. C. T. Ladson, who had been attorney for the plaintiff, asked that his name be stricken. Judge Van Epps then dismissed the case.

ASSISTANTS NEEDED.

Greater Attendance in the Public Schools

Than Ever Before.

Than Ever Before.

There was never a larger attendance in the public schools of Fulton county than now.

Four schools yesterday applied to Commissioner Fain for assistant teachers. The number of pupils had grown so large that it was impossible for the regular teachers to properly attend to the schools.

Commissioner Fain supplied the schools with Commissioner Fain supplied the schools with assistants as best he could.

Mrs. P. T. Collier was selected as assistant to Mrs. R. H. Robbe at the Walkersville school. Miss Ruby Scoggins was appointed as assistant to her father, Professor Andrew P. Scoggins, at the Hemphill school, in Adamsville district. Miss Lula Wood was employed as assistant to the principal of the Hapeville school. Professor Thomas P. Murray and wife, who have charge of the larger and flourishing school at East Point, also want another assistant.

The beautiful, spring-like weather of the past few days has conduced largely to the unusual attendance in the country schools.

The Southern Carriage Makers' Association Meets in Convention

IN THE GATE CITY GUARD ARMORY.

This Morning, and Will Be in Bession for Two Days-A Banquet for Tomorrow.

The carriage makers are here in force. Their white badges fluttered in the breezes yesterday afternoon as they hustled around getting things ready for their convention which begins today, and those from abroad were given a hearty Atlanta greeting by the local members. The badges signify that they are members of the Southern Carriage Makers' Association and there are about one hundred delegates here. This association is the only one in the United States that is not a part of the National Coachmakers' Association, which is a very large makers' Association, which is a very large organization and comprises the greater part of all the carriage makers in America. The Southern association is growing wonderfully every year. It was organized in 1880 with not quite a dozen men, and its growth has been miraculous. It you don't believe it, just go up to the Gate City Guard's armory this afternoon and look at their exhibits. They will interest you even if you haven't a carriage and never expect to have one.

John Jones, of Cartersville, secretary;
John Smith, of Atlanta, treasurer;
J. W. Weitzel, of Atlanta, committee on exhibits, and J. L. Shuff, committee on banquet and speeches.

and speeches.

The officers are, it is needless to say, doing everything they know how to make the stay of the visitors in Atlanta pleasant.

The Exhibits. Mr. Weitzel has worked hard, and it is through his energy that the handsome lot of exhibits are here. The following is a list of through his energy that the handsome lot of exhibits are here. The following is a list of the most prominent exhibits:

The Anglo-American Varnish Company has a fine exhibit, and is represented by Mr. Charles T. Bland. He is also here in the interest of The Carriage Makers' Monthly, which is the leading paper of its kind in the country. It is published in Philadelphia.

The old house of Valentine has a handsome exhibit of paints, varnishes and so forth. This is one of the largest houses of its kind in the world. It has branch houses in Paris, London, Berlin and other large cities. Mr. L. M. Allaman represents this company. He has been one of the hardest workers that the association has had.

Birch & Collins, of Columbus, O., have an exhibit of silver goods.

J. A. & J. P. Cooper, of Struthers, O., have an exhibit of wood work.

J. E. Miller, of St. Louis, has an exhibit of a patent wrench that is a very ingenious thing.

The Excelsior Seat Company, of Columbus, O., has an exhibit of carriage bodies.

The National Hardware Company, of Cincinnati, O., has an exhibit of general carriage goods.

The American Queen Spring Company, of Cincinnati, O., has an exhibit of general carriage goods.

The King Spring Company, of Buffalo, N. Y., has an exhibit of springs.

H. Scherer, of Detroit, Mich., has an exhibit of lamps.

J. T. Goodrich, of New Haven, Conn., has an exhibit of lamps.

Sheiden & Co., of Wilkesbarre, Penn., have an hibit of a new patent four-passenger trap.

Sheiden & Co., of Wilkesbarre, Fenn., have an exhibit of their great axle.
Fredonia Manufacturing Company, of Youngstown, O., has a patent coupling on exhibition.
Topliff & Ely, of Elyria, O., have an exhibit of bow sockets. Topliff & Eiy, of Eiyin, O., and bow sockets.
C. H. & J. D. Harrison, of Newark, N. J., have an exhibit of carriage leathers.
John Berger, of Cincinnati, O., carriage straps.
C. A. Russell, of Ostego, Mich., has on exhibition a patent buckboard.
The Cook Carriage Company, of Cincinnati, has then arhibit.

R. H. Jones & Son, of Cartersville, have an exhibit of Georgia wood works for carriages.

The Hildreth Varnish Company, of New York, bases of exhibit. has an exhibit.

The Massasoit Whip Company, of Westfield, Mass, has an exhibit.

The largest and handsomest exhibit is a large center piece of paints and varnishes sent here by the Lawson Valentine Company, of Hunter's Point, L. I. They are represented by Mr. Charles Brewster Steele.

Entertaining the Delegates.

Last night all the delegates attended the theater in a body, and saw Wilfred Clarke in "She Stoops to Conquer."

This morning at 10 o'clock they will meet at the armory to attend to business. In the after-noou a carriage drive will be taken, and at night one of the theaters will be attended. On tomorrow morning more business will be transacted. In the afternoon an informal re-ception will be held, and at night the banquet at the Kimball.

REV. DR. BARRETT, OF ST. LUKE'S.

He Is Asked to Accept the Deanery of St. Paul's Church in Chattanoogs Rev. Dr. Barrett, dean of St. Luke's cathedral, has been asked to accept the deanery of St. Paul's church in Chattanooga. Mr. Barrett left Atlanta yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock for Chattanooga, to thoroughly inquire into the matter, and it is very probable before he returns he will decide whether not he will remain in Atlanta or move t as well as the wealthiest, Episcopal parishes in the south. The clurch is a magnificent structure, and is considered one of the prettiest edifices of its kind throughout the country. The rectory adjoining it is one of the finest appointed houses in Chattanooga. Rev. Dr. Campbell, the present dean, has lately accepted a call from a church in New York.

About three weeks ago a committee from St. Paul's came to Atlanta for the purpose of hearing Dr. Barrett preach.

The committee was deeply impressed by the doctor's eloquence and logic, and returned to Chattanooga and made its report.

On Saturday last another committee from the church returned to Atlanta, and made Dr. Barrett a formal offer. The salary named by the committee is twice as large as that which the doctor receives as dean of St. Luke's. Dr. Barrett was informed by the committee that he had been chosen from among fifty names which had been mentioned. Dr. Barrett has been dean of St. Luke's nearly six years, and is deeply beloved by his parishioners, who greatly regret the idea of losing him.

Dr. Barrett will return from Chattanooga to-day of tomorrow, and will then definitely eavents.

succeeds the Brosius company, bids fair to be a succeed.

Speaking of its plans for the future, one of the officials said:

"The old company was obliged to have money; some of the stockholders could and others could not furnish it, so the property had to sell. It was sold for $50,000, and any of the old stockholders who will put money in the new organization can do so, and have common stock issued in the place of their old stock, and for the cash they put in they will get preferred stock at the rate of two for one.

"With money to operate a good manufacturing business, the property is well worth three times what it will cost the new company. Besides, territory can be sold to advantage, and under a practical and economical management a part in ortall the losses sustained by such of the old stockholders as will aid the reorganization can be saved to them. We need their help. This enterprise must be sustained and we believe it will be.

"Several new parties will co-operate with us. The new company will make other things besides sewing machines, and we desire to build up a good manufacturing business, on a sare and practical basis. Until the organization of the new company in March, I cannot further outline its policy, but we intend to make it succeed and want the support of our people."

Part of the property had not been sold to settle with old stockholders. They have no claims to settle and none of the property has been sold.

Scalp, Scaly and Crusty. Terrible Itching. Three Other Remedies Fail. Cured by Cutleura for $1.75.

I have used the CUTICUBA REMEDIES for scalp diseases. My hair was failing badly, my foretop becoming crusty or scaly, and itched so badly that I could not keep my hands off my head. If I combed off those scales, a sticky or gummy substance would oze out of the skin and form another crust. After trying two or three remedies, I sent to you for your book; and after reading it, I used one box of CUTICUBA, one cake of CUTICUBA SOAP, and took one bottle of the CUTICUBA RESOLVENT, which cured me. I feel grateful to you for the remedies, and have recommended them to I. S. TURNER, my friends.

Three years ago my little boy had a terrible sore on his chest, four inches across, besides other forms of eczema. His doctor had tried several remedies with no effect, so I began to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES. In two weeks his chest was healed, and the skin white and smooth again. I continued the CUTICURA RESOLVENT some time longer, until he was quite well, and even now give it to him once in a while if he has any blood trouble. THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

Exchange.

NEW YORK, February 9.—The stock market today was active, feverish and irregular, and trading was almost entirely of a professional nature. There was manifested again a disposition on the part of the traders to hammer the general list, and while prices were stimulated from time to time by covering of short contracts in different parts of the list, there was a steady pressure of short stock for sale, which with free realizing by professionals on the late rise, kept prices down in everything, and in a few instances caused material losses. The Coal stocks still occupied the most prominent position in the market, but their preponderance was by no means so marked as yesterday, and Erie and Chicago Gas were the features of the day's operations. Transactions in Reading were again very large, but the fluctuations were not on the same large scale as for the last two days, and after a rise of 1 per cent to 51½, declined to 49½, closing at only ½ per cent better. Lackawanna fulfilled the prophesy by selling up to 160, but it immediately retired and sold down to 156¾. Delaware and Hudson sold up to 132, but lost all improvement, and Jersey Central was weak throughout, selling down from 195% to 126%. There was a revival provement, and Jersey Central was weak throughout, selling down from 129½ to 126¼. There was a revival of the old rumors that the Chicago Gas people had made a deal with the Economic which seem which had a a substantial rise in the former, but no confirmation was had of the story. The advance, however, served to rally the entire list, and Chicago Gas closed with a large portion of the gain. Other Industrials were specially benefited by the spurt, and Sugar retained its advantage. The general list covered for but the advantage. The general list opened firm, but the pressure of short sales and a reaction in Coal stocks pressure of short sales and a reaction in Coal stocks caused a general though slow decline until a rally occurred in Industrials, when Atchison came to the front on covering of shorts, and the whole list was again lifted above the level of the first prices. The failure of Coalers to rally, however, encouraged bear-lish operations, and in the last hour a specially severe pressure was brought to bear with the effect of wiping but all early rains and in many cases something for out all early gains, and, in many cases, something in addition. Atchison, Reading, Distillers and Louisville were specially prominent in the late decline. The mardown 1%, Jersey Central 2 and New England 1, but hicago Gas is up 2½, and Sugar 2 per cent. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter. By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, February 9.- The London marke NEW YORK, February 9.—The London market was strong for Atchison, and they also bought a little Louisville and Nashville, but they sold quite a goodly amount of Reading. The market here opened steady, and the Coalers scored an advance, but they were very much steadier than yesterday, and none of them indulged in any skyrocket performances. The general market was strong until the last hour, the main feat ure being the covering of quite a line of shorts by the most prominent bear leaders. This buying of stocks for his account made the market firmly strong, but for his account made the market firmly strong, but during the last hour the traders, accing that the buy-ing from this source had been supplied, sold off the list and brought about quite a little reaction. The center of interest was still confined to the coal stocks, and of interest was still confined to the coal stocks, and considering the amount of realizing, they acted very strong. The general market is rather nervous. It responds quickly to builing, but on the other hand it sells off just as quickly. Silver was very weak, as it is now definitely settled that no silver legislation will take place this year. Neither of the great political parties wish to encourage it, as they work of go before the country on that issue. The market is a good trading one, and money can be made by buying on weak spots and selling on railies.

Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter.

By private wire to A. P. Youngblood. By private wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, February 9.—Liverpool this morning again gave us very depressed reports, and the prospects for our market were not very encouraging. The opening, however, was decidedly steadier than had been anticipated; in fact, the price of cotton itself now seems to be more or less of a natural support, notwithstanding the tremendous movement which is now taking place. The figures for this week are something almost incredible, and the amount that will come into sight doubtless prove much larger than last year, and of course infinitely heavier than the year previous. As observed, values opened steadier than anticipated, As observed, values opened steadier than anticipated As observed, values opened steadier than anticipated, and throughout the day have shown much stability. Europe has sold here as well as New Orleans. The buying, however, has been good, and in a fair part for investment by local people. At several times efforts were made to depress the market mainly with the object of buying, but in no case with any tangible result, and values are almost up to last night's figures. The near months have been a trifle easier, and the differences are wider than they have been, which is an evidence of outside buying. Considerable July and Angust and further out options have been taken. There is absolutely nothing to be said in regard to the immegust and further out options have been taken. There is absolutely nothing to be said in regard to the immediate future, for everything is in suspense, and hinges on the course of receipts. People here who have secuted the idea of 8,600,000 bales are now more or less inclined to look for a crop of these dimensions, but even with such a yield we consider values extremely low. The bureau is expected tomorrow, and many people claim that it will show very small stocks on the plantations. Of course nothing is known, and this is merely surmise. If the tenor of the report should be as expected it will have a bearing upon prices.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, February 9.—Receipts at the ports to-day will probably be 49,000 bales, against 32,000 last week and 24,000 last year. It was not to be expected that the market could be sustained in the face of such an availanche of cotton, and the surprise is, that not-withstanding great weakness in Liverpool, the New York market has yielded only an average of about 4 points up to lo'clock today. In Liverpool by the same points up to 1 o'clock today. In Liverpool by the same hour futures were depressed, and 5-64d below last evennour natures were depressed, and 5-54d below last even-ing's prices. Here, the opening market on the near positions declined some 7 to 8 points, but as the call progressed, the execution of some large buying orders had a steadying effect, and before noon August con-tracts were selling within 1 point of yesterday's close. Subsequently a reaction was established upon the news of heavy receipts at New Orleans. The sentiment here amongst our more conservative element seems to iere amongst our more conservative element seems to disregard the daily volume of receipts as the most important influence, and some very good buying has, during the last few days, been predicted upon the growing and constant belief in a much reduced acregrowing and constant belief in a much reduced acreage and production next year. Our cables advise that the decline in Liverpool reflects the general acceptance of maximum crop estimates, and from now on we are inclined to think the problem of next year's supply, rather then the magnitude of this season's production, will be the condolling influence. During the afternoon the market has been distinguished by the remarkable stability above alluded to, and closes very steady at within 1 to 2 points of vesterday's fluences. In the force within 1 to 2 points of yesterday's figures. In the face f today's port receipts, which will probably be not less than 51,000 bales, the steadiness that has been shown than 51,000 bales, the steadiness that has been shown is surprising, and can only be accounted for upon the theory that for the present, at least, prices have reached a point that adjusts them to the plethoric supply. The holdings of a prominent house yesterday alluded to as being conspicuous buyers, have again been increased today, their purchases, however, being mainly of the new crop positions, September, October and November, in which the trade is becoming year active. The government report that will be very active. The government report that will be issued tomorrow will give the amount of cotten remaining on the plantations on the lat instant, and the pprehension that its showing might be a surprise has been perhaps something of a deterrent to short sellers subsequent weakness in wheat finally had its effect and there was a sharp break. May opened at 42%c, sold at 42%c, then weakened and without material reaction closed at 41%c, the lowest figure of the day, at a loss of 1c. Receipts were freer, grading better and clear, cold weather good for corn in cribs.

Outs followed corn and closed with a loss of %c. Hog products were higher early on smaller receipts of hogs than was expected and an advance of 10@15c at the yards. Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter

By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood.
CHICAGO, February 9.—The cables are somewhat conflicting, but it is quite evident that London and Liverpool are a shade higher, with Antwerp, Paris and Berlin lower, with a decline in our market today. We may look for lower London and Liverpool in the morning. Although the clearances were quite large the offerings of wheat and the general tone of all grain and provisions have been heavy, with every indication of a bear market. The clearances of wheat and wheat flour, and the buying orders for export will tave to be very large in order to prevent a further decline in the immediate future.

The farmess' deliveries of corn show quite a liberal increase yesterday and today, which points quite conclusively to larger receipts here before the end of the week. The decline in wheat rather weakens the confidence of some of the parties who have been buying corn lately, and it looks now as though we might ap-oroach the neighborhood of 40 cents for May again. Should corn continue heavy, undoubtedly weak oats will follow in an increase.

will follow in an increase.

Trading in provisions was light. Offerings were liberal, and the tendency of the markets is against holders. On the whole, the outlook for any improvement in grain and provisions in the near future is not very favorable. Cotton suffered a further decline. Some of our best local speculators are buying on open orders given to buy at every 10 points decline. They undoubtedly will reach the bottom very soon, and in time will be paid ppointed for the Atlanta and Florida Railroad Yesterday.

TWO RECEIVERS

CAPT. T.W. GARRETT AND MR. R. H. PLANT

the Two Receivers Appointed-An Interesting Legal Fight Expected to Follow.

The history of the receivership case of the Atlanta and Florida road has become a tale of two cities.
Yesterday morning, at almost the same hour, hearing a bill for receiver for the Atlanta and Florida road. two judges in two different Georgia cities sat

These bills were presented by different attorneys, representing different claims against the road, for which a receiver was asked.

The prayers of both bills were granted, and the two judges appointed two receivers for the Atlanta and Florida property.

One of these judges was Judge Marshall J. Clarke, of this city; the other, Judge Emory Speer, of the Southern district of Georgia, sitting at Savannah.

Judge Clarke considered the bill for receiver, which was presented to him nearly a month ago, by E. W. Marsh and other creditors of the company. He appointed Captain Thomas W. Garrett, who is now superintendent of the road, as temporary receiver.

Judge Emory Speer acted on a bill pre-sented by the East Tennessee road yesterday norning. He appointed Mr. R. H. Plant, of morning. He appointed Mr. R. H. Plant, of Macon, as receiver for the road.

Neither of the courts knew of the action of the other, and an interesting legal complication will arise over the question of which appointment shall stand.

The Atlanta and Florida stockholders, who have all along been fighting the appointment of a receiver, are now placed in the peculiar predicament of having two receivers.

A History of the Atlanta Case. A short history of the case is about as follows:

On January 13th, last, Messrs. Payne and Tye, filed a bill for receiver before Judge Marshall Clarke. They represented Mr. E. W. Marsh, the Pennsylvania Steel Company and other creditors of the road, who wanted a receiver appointed. The stockholders of the road, not wanting a receiver, asked for a continuance, believing that they could get up the money to satisfy the pressing indebtedness. Only about fifty thousand dollars was needed for immediate use, and several stockholders. mmediate use, and several stockholders tings were held with a view of raising the meetings were held with a view of raising the money necessary.

Or January 23, 1892, Judge Clarke granted an order, restraining the officials of the Atlanta and Florida road from appropriating any of the funds of the road for any other purpose than to pay its operating expenses.

The case was continued until yesterday, when Judge Clarke again took it up and appointed Captain Thomas W. Garrett as temporary receiver. Captain Garrett was fully suppowered, as receiver, to take complete tharge of the property, and to operate the road to the best advantage. Captain Garrett was immediately notified of his appointment and assumed charge in his new capacity. med charge in his new capacity.

Representing Mr. Plant. Almost as soon as he had received the notification of his appointment, Mr. Alex C. King, of the firm of Calhoun, King & Spalding, alled at his office.
"I have come," said Mr. King, "to take charge of this office. Judge Speer has appointed Mr. R. H. Plant, of Macon, as receiver of the road."

He held a yellow paper in his hand—the telegran telling of the appointment.

Captain Garrett heard the story of how a bill had been filed yesterday morning, before Judge Emory Speer, in Savennah, and how, after considering it, he had appointed Mr.

Plant receiver. Plant receiver.
"I refuse to relinquish possession of the mad and property," said Captain Garrett. "I have been appointed by Judge Clarke, and I refuse to give up."
Mr. Alex King left the office, with Captain

Garrett in possession.

The bill for receiver which was tendered to Judge Speer was filed by the East Tennessee road, which holds claims against the Atlanta and Florida. The legal representatives of the and Florida. The legal representatives of the East Tennessee were Messrs. Dorsey, Brewster & Howell and Calhoun, King & Spalding.

A hard legal fight will result over the two appointments yesterday. The Two Receivers.

Captain Garrett is now in charge and says he intends remaining in charge until it is judi-tially determined that he must get out. tally determined that he must get out. Receiver Plant will probably be here today to take charge, and if Captain Garrett will not give up, attorneys will institute some kind of legal proceedings to oust him and to get possession of the road.

Messrs. Payne and Twe claim that the appointment of Captain Garrett should stand, as their application for receiver was filed first, and Judge Clarke had full jurisdiction over the

The struggle will be watched with great interest. It seems to be a clash of authority between the two courts.

Today will develop something new in the legal features of the case. An Order Issued. Captain Garrett yesterday mailed the following circular to all the agents of the Atlanta and Florida:

and Florida:

ATLANTA, Ga., February 9, 1892.—To Agents and Employes: Agreeable to an order issued by Marshall J. Clarke, judge of the superior court of Faiton county. I have this day assumed charge as receiver of the assets, funds and property of the Atlanta and Florida Railroad Company.

All remittances should be made direct to me.

J. W. GARRETT, Receiver.

An order was issued to all connections by Captain Garrett, aunouncing his appointment asreceiver, and directing that "all freights, balances, ticket sales and mileage, or any other funds accruing to the credit of the At-lanta and Florida Railroad Company should be made to me as receiver."

MILLIONS IN IT.

The Atlanta and Florida Believed to Be Fine Property.

Railroad men look upon the Atlanta and Florida is a property of splendid possibilities. An official of another road remarked yesterday an omeral of another road remarked yesterday that with $209,000 capital he could make $1,00.0.00 out of the Atlanta and Florida in four years. He explained that he would use a large part of the $2,000 to put the present line in good working shape, and then he thought he would be able to raise capital enough to extend the road to the coast.

"Once get it through to the seaboard and there would be a mint of money in the property," said he. "The projected line pierces a country which is magnificently timbered, and the land all along the route is fertile and abundantly productive. In a few years the pine lands in that section of Georgia will be worth million smore than they are now.

A New Place and a Good One.

J. L. Adams has been appointed passenger agent for the Trusk Line Association's joint committee. His headquarters will be in New York and his duty will be to personally investigate and report apon subjects referred to him by the committee and to perform such other duties as they may find it necessary to assign to him. Mr. Adams is well known in Georgia. He was chief clerk to Captain James L. Taylor when the latter was general passenger agent of the Savannah, Florida and Western. Subsequently Mr. Adams was with the Richmond and Danville. His new position is a good one.

The Scrap Heap. The Scrap Heap.

street yesterday morning.

Mr. Beauchamp came into the city on a road cart drawn by a fractious young quadruped. Soon after he crossed the Air-Line tracks, Mr. Beauchamp saw an electric car coming towards him. Knowing that his horse was unaccustomed to the cars, he gathered the reins tightly and guided the animal off the track. But the steed grew wild and began cavorting around. Mr. Beauchamp piled the whip, but was unable to clear the track and the car did the balance.

The cart was smashed to pieces and Mr. Beauchamp was badly hurt in the hips and shoulders. Dr. Watson rendered the necessary surgical attention ar.d in the evening Mr. Beau-champ took a train for home.

Mississippi Negroes Are Lending Money in Georgia.

GREAT VOLUME OF INSURANCE BUSINESS

The Soldiers' Pensions to Begin March 1st The Railroad Tax Case Up Monday for Argument.

A negro building and loan association is tending money from Natchez, Miss., to Atlanta. Yesterday morning a negro walked into the office of the secretary of state, planked down the $50 fee and filed the necessary certificates for the Mississippi Co-operative Benefit Association

His name is Louis J. Winston, and he says he has been lending money in Atlanta. The letter head of the association states that $40,-000 was loaned in the first twenty months and the association is now lending money at the rate of $3,000 a month. The papers include a certificate from the Natchez Safe Deposit and Trust Company that the above association has on deposit with them 75 per cent of the securities, that the amount exceeds $25,000. Winston is "chief manager," and says his association lends money at 6 per cent and also takes savings from 5 cents up.

The comptroller general's office is receiving reports from insurance companies, which are required to file annual and semi-annual statements by the 1st of March. If semi-annual statements are not filed by that date, their licenses will be revoked.

The business in Georgia is done by 107 companies, classified as follows:

The importance of the insurance business in Georgia is shown by the following statement, taken from the annual report just completed by Mr. R. C. Irwin, of the insurance division of the comptroller general's office: INSURANCE BUSINESS, OCTOBER 1, 1890, TO OCTOBER

The total collected in Georgia is $4,214,426, and the losses paid amount to $1,590,317. After allowing the $300,000 collected by home companies, it appears that the insurance business takes $2,324,000 out of Georgia in a year.

The payment of widows' pensions continues to occupy the attention of the treasurer and comptroller general's offices. About three hundred thousand dollars in all has been paid. Mr. Furlow, of the comptroller general's office, sent $13,300 to different counties yesterday, and $20 000 the day before. and $20,000 the day before. About half of the checks had to be mailed, and Mr. Furlow is working hard to get them out. The work will be completed next week. The payment of soldiers' pensions will begin March 1st.

The railroad tax case will be argued in the supreme court Monday. Ex-Attorney General Anderson and Hon. W. C. Glenn will appear

The matter of the 10 per cent reduction on local rates where a shipment of freight goes over two roads will come up before the railroad commission Monday.

Governor Northen has gone to Cuthbert, and matters are quiet at the executive office. He is expected to return Thursday night.

There is represented in Hood's Sarsaparilla all the knowledge which modern research in medical science has developed, combined with long experience and careful experiment.

The Late Dr. Louis M. Gillam. It is with sincere regret that the writer feels called upon to pay a feeble tribute to the late Dr. Louis M. Gillam, whose death occurred on the 2d day of February, 1892.

Dr. Gillam was born in Newberry, S. C., on the Dr. Gillam was born in Newberry, S. C., on the 20th of January, 1825, graduated at the Jefferson Medical college, of Philadelphia, in 1850 and practiced medicine almost uninterruptedly up to the year of 1883, when he discovered and put upon the market tre well-known Botanic Blood Balm, which today is almost a household word all over the United States. In 1853 he married Miss Mercdith, only daughter of Dr. William Meredith Moon, of Newberry, S. C., and his surviving children are Mrs. Juliette Harris, of Atlanta, Mrs. William Brooks, of Waco, Tex., Mrs. E. B. Pinson, of Atlanta, Mrs. James M. Perry, of Atlanta, Mrs. Whitheld, of Brunswick, and James S. and Wiley B. Gillam, of Atlanta.

whitheid, of Brunswick, and James S. and Wiley S. Gillam, of Atlanta.

His ancestors were Presbyterians and so was he, always true to his church and devoted to his religion. His funeral was preached by Dr. Barrett, assisted by Rev. W. B. Mathis, at the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta, whose eulogy upon his sterling worth was as beautiful as it was true. The pallbearers who solemnly bore his remains were Dr. C. R. Divine, Dr. William Armstrong, Messrs. J. S. Pinson, W. F. Phelps, Asa G. Candler, John Brooks, G. T. Bedell and E. M. Chapman. It may be said of Dr. Gillam that he was on old school gentieman, having that true spirit of gentility and loftiness of character which ever constitutes a true man. He was good to all, and his praises have been sounded all these years by hundreds for whom he practiced his chosen profession without the hope of fee or reward. He was known to the solution of the profession without the hope of fee or reward. He was known to the said of the said and inspired them with the uplifting power of prayer, and always counseled good deeds and upright action. No man stood higher among men than he for modesty with much learning and for that sterling worth which was around his conduct like the aroma from some sweet flower. Modest, unassuming, and yet dignified in his bearing, he was the peer of any in the profession he loved, and from his vast store of wisdom he often cheerfully gave forth for the asking. He was every way a model man, an affectionate husband, a kind father and an upright citizen.

But he has gone from us to a better world, and But he has gone from us to a better world, and those he leaves behind are comforted with the full belief that he still lives in a brighter clime, where sorrow is unknown. When his body was interred at Kingston, Ga., the villagers and their children, to whom he was well known, assembled en masse to do him honor—thus exemplifying the expression, "To live in the hearts of those we leave behind us is not to die." Truly, he was a good Christian, and an upright citizen in every respect. Truly he is with those he loved, where his work on earts surrounds him with all that is beautiful and true, and truly it may be said of him when earth's bravuras shall pass from our views and we shall puss into the beautiful land on some summer's day, we shall meet again. To die is but to sleep to be awakened in a more beautiful and more enduring life, where we shall be with those we love, and where we shall lovingly and patiently wait for our loved ones to finish their tasks and join us on the beautiful shores. Such a meeting is a joy that earth cannot give—it is the full outpourings of heaven's bilss for all the sorrows His children suffer here.

heaven's bliss for all the sorrows His children suffer here.

Let us who remain behind profit by his beautiful examples, which ever an anon will stir our hearts like a frail harp string shaken by the storm, or like some soft strain of music as it permeates our being. Thus we shall feel his touch and almost hear his voice, invoking us to do good and live aright. Let us not say farewell, but let us rather say nail and farewell, for we shain nail him again some day when we too shall go to gather the fruits of a well-spent life.

Let it be said of him that death was his sincerest and truest friend, because it came to him with a smiling face to welcome him to a higher and more beautiful life—to Elysian fields of pure bliss, where he joyfully awaits the coming of those who still tarry among earth's troubles.

FOR SALE TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER

Wednesday, February, 10 at 3 O'Clock, On Piedmont Ave., Courier and Pine Sts.

These valuable lots are 50x150 feet, level and convenient to car lines, churches and schools, splendid sidewalks, with gas, water and sewerage; no better location for first-class homes, with the most desirable surroundings, can be found on the north side of Atlanta. Parties desiring lots near the business center of the city will find it to their interest to attened this sale and secure a lot to build upon. Such places are growing scarce annually, and with an increase of population at the rate of 10,000 to 12,000 a year, this property cannot long remain so cheap. Now is the opportunity of your life. It will pay you to secure a lot, whether you intend to build this year or not, because they will cost you 25 per cent more money one year later. On the southeast corner of Piedmont ave. and Pine street, there is a nice snug 5-room cottage ready for occupancy at once. This will be the On Piedmont Ave., Courier and Pine Sts. later. On the southeast corner of Piedmont ave. and Pine street, there is a nice snug 5-room cottage ready for occupancy at once. This will be the most opportune time to get a bargain that you can probably ever have. The owner desires to go abroad at an early date and has instructed me absolutely to sell the property for what it will bring. Titles all right. Terms \(\frac{1}{3} \) cash, balance 6, 12, 18 and 24 months.

This is one of the times in the Tailoring Department with us that is a bright reminiscence for many a day with those who take advantage of the chance. Twenty cents saved on every dollar you spend there. Don't you think the liberal discount warrants generous patronage? The machinery of the Tailoring Store is not allowed to rust by idleness. All's life and activity there now. GREAT PANTS SALE.

The sales of last month were great beyond precedent. Larger than we had reason to hope they would be. Added testimony to the broad-gauge policy that inspires the power to do with the wisdom of how to do. But do not for one single instant suppose that the triumph of a grand success leads us to relaxed effort. "Innocuous desuetude" is not in our programme. Our whole organization is at present directed towards making popular the exceptional Suit Sale now progressing here. Its equal in point of cheapness has never been known in this city. Come before the choicest plums are sold.
